Pearson Opposes A-Bomb In Korea

External Affairs Minister Says Its Use Against China Is Unwise

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson today deprecated any use of the atomic bomb against Communist China.

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson will make a "very important speech" on Canada's position in the international crisis at the opening session of the federal-provincial conference, a spokesman for his department said today.

TAX BOOST PREDICTED BY ST. LAURENT

Prime Minister Warns Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—An increase in federal taxes was predicted today by Prime Minister St. Laurent at the opening of the federal-provincial conference on fiscal and social security matters.

The increase, he said, will be "commensurate with the gravity" of the international situation. He hinted income taxes will be boosted.

He held delegates federal expenditures on defence had to be increased because of the menace of Communist aggression, and he added:

"The federal government is faced with the task of finding the money to pay for these additional expenditures."

"I am sure that no one who considers carefully the figures of rising defence costs can be optimistic that these costs will be met without some increase in taxation."

Mr. St. Laurent did not refer to personal income tax directly, but he said:

"Faced with the world situation to which I have referred, it is obvious that the federal authorities will have no option but to impose direct taxes to a degree commensurate with the gravity of the situation."

Personal income and corporation taxes are the major direct taxes imposed by the federal government. Sales taxes, excise taxes, customs duties and the like are considered indirect taxes.

Presumably any increases would be made effective through the 1951-52 budget. It may be brought down in March or early April.

St. Laurent said his government would offer an optional revised basis for minimum payments to be made to provinces under the proposed renewal of the taxation agreements.

But he emphasized this would not of itself affect the level of current payments unless there should be a substantial decline in the gross national product—one of the factors on which the offer was based.

The conference starts this morning. Pearson will speak and then leave later for New York to resume leadership of Canada's United Nations delegation for debate on a resolution for withdrawal of Chinese troops from Korea.

He is expected to give provincial delegates to the conference a picture of the critical world situation as well as an outline of what Canada thinks should be done about it.

Tito Warns Allies On A-Bomb Use

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Premier Tito warned today that use of the atom bomb in Korea would have "unfathomable consequences" and lead to the extension of the conflict into a third world war.

The Yugoslav premier gave this warning in answer to one of a series of questions submitted by Kingsbury Smith, European manager of the International News Service, the official Yugoslav Agency Tanjug reported.

Tito said the United States would lose a great deal both politically and morally by using the atom bomb in Korea.

The outcome of the Korean war was "no longer a matter of prestige, but of who is prepared to sacrifice more for the preservation of peace."

In answer to the question: Do you think it is possible to avoid extension of the Korean conflict? Tito replied:

"It should be possible if the United Nations preserve their 'sang froid,' that is, if they do not for one moment lose sight of the fact that what is most important for mankind in these fearful times is to prevent a new world catastrophe."

Kidd Treasure Shovel Lost

CHESTER, N.S. (CP)—Another attempt to find Capt. Kidd's pirate treasure ended in near-tragedy during the week-end when a 25-ton diesel shovel plunged overboard from a barge. Seven men on the barge escaped in the nick of time to a small boat being towed behind the barge.

Shots Halt Youths

Stopped by warning shots fired by policemen, two 15-year-old boys, armed with pistols, arrested Sunday night, are believed to be responsible for at least a half-dozen robberies in Victoria and Saanich during the last few weeks.

Their capture, made possible through the alertness of a city storekeeper, is considered by police to be further proof that juveniles and teenagers have been responsible for the biggest percentage of shopbreaking in this area this year.

Ralph Creed, proprietor of the OK Food and Meat Market, 941-43 Kings Road, living over his store, heard his premises being broken into and called police at 8:55.

Constables Deans Blackstock, Albert Wilson, Jack Perry, W. W. Calwell and Albert Harwood saw two boys who started to run away from the rear of the store. Two shots fired into the ground brought them to a stop.

GUNS WERE LOADED

While running, a revolver fell out of a pocket of one of the boys. The other threw his away. Police recovered both weapons. They were loaded.

Sullivan Trial Postponement Brings Protest

OTTAWA (CP)—Bitter words were exchanged between Crown attorney and defence counsel in police court today as the Crown obtained a third remand in the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Marion Sullivan, 50-year-old Toronto society woman charged with the murder of her prominent lawyer husband.

Defence counsel Royden Hughes pleaded with Magistrate Glenn Strike that a date for the hearing be set immediately. He recalled the crown had promised to do so today when the second remand was granted last week.

The arrest of Mrs. Sullivan Nov. 18 had been "quick enough."

Now a hearing of the case was being delayed. Certainly it could not be because the Crown had to "arrange" the evidence for presentation, Mr. Hughes said.

Crown attorney Raoul Mercier, who had asked for the remand, quickly interjected: "My friend is talking through his hat."

W. Berlin Vote Downs Reds

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin, anti-Communist political fortress 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain, knocked out Communism again Sunday with a record 90.4 per cent vote in municipal elections.

Disregarding Red Threats and a Communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,664,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist Mayor Ernest Reuter, pledged continuance of their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin House of Deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats.

Five western splinter parties appearing on the ballot here for the first time each failed to win 5 per cent of votes and so got no seats in the new House.

U.N. Diplomats Await Word On India-Red Talk

NEW YORK (AP)—Faced with a constantly deteriorating military situation in Korea, United Nations diplomats waited anxiously today to learn the results of a conference between India's Sir Benegal N. Rau and Communist China's Wu Hsiu-chuan.

The two met for several hours Sunday night in what Sir Benegal said was an attempt to find a peaceful solution to the crisis caused by Red Chinese intervention in Korea.

The conference between the two Asian diplomats came as the United States told the U.N. General Assembly to be ready for action on the Chinese problem.

Cutter Speeds To Save Trawler

HALIFAX (CP)—The United States trawler Florence Lucy has sent out a call for assistance from 10 miles off Cape Roseway, on the southwestern tip of Nova Scotia. It was reported here today.

The vessel's engine had broken down. The R.C.M.P. cutter Irvine, which is in the area, will tow the disabled trawler to Shelburne, N.S., for repairs.

CANADA'S SHIPS STAND OFF YALU

TOKYO (Reuters)—Three Canadian destroyers and one Australian mounted close patrol today off the mouth of the Yalu River—border between North Korea and Manchuria.

Their task is to prevent the Chinese Communists using the sea route to supply troops thrusting deep into the Korean peninsula.

The three Canadian destroyers in Korean waters are the Athabaskan, Cayuga and Sioux.

Canada Troops Sail On

PEARL HARBOR (CP)—Canada's first fighting contribution to the United Nations ground forces in Korea sailed on today to an uncertain future after a brief stopover here.

Ahead of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has at least another week of life aboard a crowded troopship making slow but steady progress to the war-torn Asiatic peninsula where the U.N. armies are fighting for their lives against a fanatical Communist foe.

The big question aboard the 9,000-ton converted freighter, the Pte. Joe P. Martinez, was whether the Pats would be unloaded as scheduled at Pusan, in southeast Korea, or be diverted to Japan to undergo the two months' field training needed to weld them into a first-class fighting force. The decision is up to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U.N. commander.

Today Crucial In Calgary's Flood Fight

CALGARY (CP)—Today is regarded as the crucial point of the Bow River flood situation in Calgary. It could herald the beginning of the end of the flooding or see the river go on another rampage like that of last Friday night, when it forced 3,000 persons out of their homes.

Everything hinges on whether the river can find a channel within its banks through a giant dam of ice which has choked the stream since Friday.

For 48 hours during the week-end the Bow behaved itself. But today, for the first time since Friday, it will carry a peak flow of water to the city from power dams farther west.

The amount of power needed by the city governs the flow of water allowed over these dams. The power demand is greatest during week days when the city's industries are in full swing.

12 Fishermen Killed

BOULOGNE-SUR-MER, France (AP)—Twelve men were killed today when a French fishing boat exploded and sank just off this Channel port. Five men aboard the ship were saved.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy. Winds north 15. Low tonight, 30; high tomorrow, 38.

Woodward Voices Hope War Can Be Avoided

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Woodward, United States Ambassador to Canada, said today that no one "can be sure that a war will not come" and that the free world can only "hope for the best—and prepare for the worst."

"We hope to preserve the peace and to avoid war," he said in an address before a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto.

"We must be ready to negotiate, but we must make it plain that we will not appease—that we will not sacrifice the principles we believe honest and real for any false hope of peace."

Woodward reviewed Canadian-American relationships, including the recently-negotiated agreement on economic co-operation,

Reinforced Chinese Trap Five Divisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee arrived today for talks with President Truman aimed at finding a common policy in the world crisis and averting the threat of a global war.

Attlee's big four-engine airplane "Cathay" rolled up on the National Airport apron where President Truman, State Secretary Acheson, Defence Secretary Marshall and other officials were waiting.

After the greetings, Attlee made a statement for newspaper men.

He said his aim in the talks with Truman—which are to get under way tomorrow—"is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we both know to be right."

He accused the Communist bloc of trying to "drive a wedge between our two peoples."

A harsh, cold wind, driving low wet clouds swept over the airport as the British leader greeted all the American officials he knew, such as Acheson, Marshall and W. Averell Harriman, the President's foreign affairs adviser, and also U.K. Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks and other diplomats from the Commonwealth countries.

Attlee and his party of advisers later went to the British Embassy.

In his statement, Attlee said: "I am very glad to come to Washington at this critical time to confer with President Truman."

"For many years past Great Britain and the United States have been agreed on the broad objectives of their international policy—the maintenance of peace, resistance to aggression, the improvement of living standards in all countries, the upholding of the democratic way of life."

"These objectives are again imperilled and we must take counsel together on how we can stand firm in their defence."

"Trouble always brings us together more closely than ever. The latest propaganda attempt of the Communists to try to drive a wedge between our two peoples."

"They are wasting their effort. And never more so than at this time when we are waging, together, under the United Nations, the struggle in Korea, in which the United States is carrying so heavy a share of the burden, but where we and other members of the British Commonwealth are playing our part."

"The United States and United Kingdom are two countries with world wide responsibilities. We are both of us affected by what happens in every part of the globe; in Europe, where the United States has made a great contribution in these last years, in the Middle East, in south and southeast Asia and in the Far East. It is natural and useful that we should confer together."

"My aim in these talks is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we know to be right."

TOKYO (AP)—Heavily outnumbered Allied troops, behind a rearward shield, retreated south today from the former Communist capital of Pyongyang in northwest Korea. Dispatches said the withdrawal was orderly and was aided by B-26 bomber squadrons.

In the frozen northeast, hordes of reinforced Chinese mounted a grave threat to five United Nations divisions. They were driving on the twin east coast industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam, and threatened to isolate the entire U.S. 10th Corps.

American troops were fighting desperately to break out of traps. The worst was just south of Changjin reservoir, supplier of power to Manchuria.

Five Chinese armies totaling 15 divisions—up to 150,000 men—were reported south of the Chongchon River and driving toward Pyongyang Monday night.

But AP correspondent Leif Erickson, at U.S. 8th Army headquarters, reported that Lt. Col. Walton H. Walker was directing an apparently skilful escape of the allied forces.

It appeared the 8th army eventually might deploy in a defence perimeter around the republic capital of Seoul and its port of Inchon. It seemed unlikely a solid line across the peninsula could be erected against such massive forces.

REDS FOUR IN

The appearance of more and more Chinese Communists at the fronts deepened the threat to the entire U.N. position on the peninsula.

Gen. MacArthur estimated 818,000 Chinese are in North Korea and along the Yalu River boundary of Red Manchuria. He said another 200,000 Chinese are moving to the area from central China.

Thus China appeared to have committed one-quarter of her armed strength of about 4,000,000 men to her undeclared war in Korea. MacArthur said preparations for this elbowing into the U.N. campaign against invading Korean Reds "were made long ago."

In the actual combat areas, Chinese Communist forces were estimated at 268,000—with 194,000 in the northwest above Pyongyang and 74,000 in the northeast.

In Seoul, President Syngman Rhee of South Korea warned against any compromise with the Chinese Reds: "In the end, we would be in a worse position than ever."

Maj. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the U.S. Fifth Air Force, today ordered 40 B-26 attack bombers to blast every bridge and road skirting the treacherous escape route.

REMOVE WOUNDED

Transport planes made hazardous flights to and from a pasture at Hagaru to remove 1,200 wounded Americans Saturday. Far East air force headquarters described the operation as one of the "most daring" of the Korean war.

Southeast of the reservoir, an estimated 45,000 Chinese were reported massing for a drive on Hamhung and its nearby port of Hungnam.

A U.S. 10th Corps intelligence officer said Sunday that some of the Chinese advance elements were 15 miles from Hamhung with other build-ups within a 35-mile radius.

Associated Press correspondent Jack MacBeth reported that elements of the U.S. 3rd Division were under intensified Red pressure near Hukusu, about 35 miles west of Hamhung. Hukusu, taken by the Chinese was bombed heavily.

Farther north, at Hyesanjin, the 17th Regiment of the United States 7th Division was ordered to withdraw from positions along a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu River. It was the only American outfit to reach the Manchurian border.

Car Overturns On Malahat

R.C.M.P. officers today were investigating a crash last night on Cousins Hill. Registered owner of sedan is Kuldeep Singh Bains, 671 Manchester Road. No one was present when police arrived on scene. Car went into a ditch, hit a rock, turned over and ended up leaning against telephone pole.

COST-OF-LIVING LEVELS OFF AT PREVIOUS PEAK

OTTAWA (CP)—After eight advances in nine months, the cost-of-living index in October leveled off to 170.7, the peak established in September, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

October was the first month in which the "free" Canadian dollar, designed to fight inflation, was allowed to operate.

The bureau attributed the block in the index's advance to lower food and fuel prices. Prices for imported United States coal and coke were lower following removal of controls from the Canadian dollar, the bureau said.

Allies Abandon Pyongyang To Reds

British Troops Last To Leave
North Korean Communist Centre

Combined UP, AP Dispatches

SEOUL (Tuesday)—Pyongyang was abandoned to North Korean guerrillas and the Chinese Communist armies today. The last troops in the city were units of the British 29th Brigade, which pulled out across two makeshift wooden bridges over the Taedong River. The enemy was last reported 15 miles northeast of the former North Korean capital.

Britain, U.S. Ask U.N. To Act On China

Four Other Powers
Back Request

NEW YORK (AP)—Britain and the United States today formally asked the United Nations Assembly to take up as an urgent matter the Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

The request was made in a telegram to U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. Diplomatic quarters said it might be taken up by the Assembly's 14-country steering committee either today or tomorrow.

The telegram was signed by the chief delegates of the United States, Britain, France, Norway, Cuba and Ecuador. These were the six countries which sponsored the Soviet-vetted Security Council resolution calling upon the Peiping regime to withdraw its troops from Korea.

There was no indication whether the same resolution would be submitted to the Assembly or whether it would be revised in an effort to brand the Chinese Communists as aggressors. This may be decided after consultations in Washington today between Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman.

Meanwhile, faced with a constantly deteriorating military situation in Korea, United Nations diplomats waited anxiously today to learn the results of a conference between India's Sir Benegal N. Rau and Communist China's Wu Hsiu-chuan.

Mercury Down In Interior

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thermometers in British Columbia hit new winter lows Sunday night. The windiest blast sent the mercury to 31° below in Interior Prince George and 36 below at Fort Nelson on the Alaska Highway.

STEEPLEJACK DIES AFTER 75-FOOT FALL

Fatal injuries were sustained by 62-year-old steeplejack Charles A. Taylor, 426 Parry Street, as the result of a 75-foot fall at 11 this morning from a Patricia Bay airport tower. He died at 1:20. Employed by the firm of A. A. Moseley, Taylor was engaged in painting the 100-foot aircraft light beacon tower on Cloak Hill, when he plunged to the ground, according to R.C.M.P. at Sidney.

Premier Johnson Leaves Hospital

Premier Byron Johnson went home from hospital today.

Injured in a highway accident near Quebec City Sept. 29, Mr. Johnson had been at Royal Jubilee Hospital since Oct. 8 recovering from a fractured hip.

Chest-high cast was removed from the Premier about a week ago, and he has been regaining the use of his legs to the extent where his stay in hospital was no longer necessary.

It is expected the Premier will be well enough to return to his office at the Legislative Buildings early in the New Year.

In Ottawa today Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed regret that Mr. Johnson had been unable to attend the Federal-Provincial Conference and proposed the conference send him a message.

Truman, Attlee Open Discussions Aimed At Preventing New World War

(From U.P., A.P. Dispatches)

WASHINGTON — President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee, and their advisers, opened their first formal meeting early this afternoon at the White House. They talked only briefly when the President greeted Attlee at Washington Airport this morning.

The White House announced that the visiting British government head and a staff of advisers met with President Truman and his U.S. military and diplomatic aides in the big cabinet room at the White House in a move to find a common policy to avert a new global war. Attlee, in a formal statement on his arrival by air in Washington, accused the Communist bloc of trying to "drive a wedge between our two peoples."

A harsh, cold wind, driving low wet clouds swept over the airport as the British leader greeted all the American officials he knew, such as Acheson, Marshall and W. Averell Harriman, the President's foreign affairs adviser, and also U.K. Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks and other diplomats from the Commonwealth countries.

Attlee and his party of advisers later went to the British Embassy.

In his statement, Attlee said: "I am very glad to come to Washington at this critical time to confer with President Truman."

$3,000,000,000 Budget Predicted By Abbott

From CP and UP Dispatches
OTTAWA — Finance Minister Abbott said today the federal budget for 1951-52 probably will be close to $3,000,000,000. The current budget provides for expenditure of $2,654,000,000.

Addressing delegates to the federal-provincial conference, Mr. Abbott said no one could see an end to heavy defence expenditures.

Defence Minister Claxton said defence expenditures likely will be more than $1,000,000,000 next year but despite the great effort the country "is neither impregnable nor even safe from attack."

The minister warned that "there is no way in which a country of 14,000,000 persons can make a territory of 3,500,000 square miles impregnable."

Premier Frost of Ontario has indicated his province will not enter federal-provincial tax agreements unless Canada is forced into a global war.

'Penthouse' Raided

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Philippine "Penthouse" which was officially opened as a cabaret Friday night, was raided by police early Sunday morning. Two bottles of liquor were seized.

Urges All Efforts To Limit Korea War

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson today deprecated any use of the atomic bomb against Communist China.

Warning that the risk of immediate general war has increased, he told the Federal-Provincial Conference advantages in use of the bomb would be "far outweighed by the reactions among the peoples of the world."

Mr. Pearson, in a major statement of government foreign policy, indicated cabinet belief the A-bomb should not be used on China "while there is any chance at all" of preventing spread of the war in Korea.

ASKS CONSULTATION

But, he said, Canada should be among those governments consulted before "a decision of such immense and awful consequence" is taken—if it is taken—to use the bomb.

Mr. Pearson said it is safe to assume China intervened in Korea with the assurance of Russian help if China herself should be attacked in turn.

Thus, he told the conference, the present situation in Korea contains the seeds of general war, not only with Communist China but with Russia, too.

He said as well:

1. Military information leads to the hope that the United Nations will be able to establish a stable, holding line in Korea.

2. The western democracies must again attempt to reconcile their determination to resist aggression with the fact China has made it abundantly clear she regards U.N. action in Korea as menacing her national interests so greatly she is willing to risk general war.

3. It is particularly difficult at this time to assess the possibilities that general war will come.

4. There is no reason why U.N. efforts to localize the Korean war should not succeed. If they don't, responsibility should be fixed firmly on Peiping and Moscow. If they do, the immediate danger of war would be removed, but not the long-range threat.

5. Because western rearmament will become more and more important after 1951, Russia may consider her best chance of victory may lie in the months ahead.

DANGER GROWS

"Because of this," he said, "and because of recent events in Korea, the danger of a major war in the immediate future has, I think, increased."

In part, the minister said on use of the A-bomb:

"The military and others may argue that the atomic bomb is just another weapon."

"But, in the minds of ordinary people everywhere in the world, it is far more than that."

"It would be hard to exaggerate the psychological and political consequences of employment of the bomb, or the threat of its employment, in the present critical situation."

"Certainly its use for a second time against an Asian people would dangerously weaken the links that remain between the western world and the peoples of the east."

"The atomic bomb is the most powerful deterrent element in the arsenal of the free world. But it is universally regarded as the ultimate weapon. It should be treated as such."

The minister's remarks were a preview of the stand Canada will take when the U.N. General Assembly discusses the Korean situation. He will leave today for New York to head the Canadian delegation.

New Security Plan Offered By Ottawa

Talks Opened
With Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Federal-Provincial Conference today that the federal government cannot revise its tax agreements with the provinces to add "materially" to their immediate over-all cost to the federal Treasury.

At the same time, he announced the federal government will implement an old-age security plan as recommended by a parliamentary committee this year if it gets unanimous agreement from the provinces for a constitutional amendment.

The proposed plan calls for contributory pensions of $40 a month for all at the age of 70 years, and $40 pensions at 65 with a means test.

Mr. St. Laurent welcomed representatives of all 10 provinces in the Commons chamber as the conference opened at 10:30 a.m. E.S.T.

An increase in federal taxes was predicted by Mr. St. Laurent. The increase, he said, will be "commensurate with the gravity" of the international situation. He hinted income taxes will be boosted.

He held delegates federal expenditures on defence had to be increased because of the menace of Communist aggression.

Mr. St. Laurent did not refer to personal income tax directly, but said the federal authorities will have no option but to impose direct taxes to a degree commensurate with the gravity of the situation.

Personal income and corporation taxes are the major direct taxes imposed by the federal government.

The Prime Minister said the proposed new finance basis would give the provinces a "very substantial" increase in minimum payments but, in present circumstances, would not affect current payments, which are above the minimums.

The agreements will be offered to all provinces for a five-year period starting with the termination of present agreements.

The Prime Minister expressed the hope that this time all provinces would enter into agreements.

As to the proposed social-security plan, the Prime Minister said it would involve increased federal expenditure of about $250,000,000 a year.

RED CROSS REGISTERS ALL NURSING PERSONNEL HERE

The Red Cross in Victoria will register all persons with nursing experience in order that they can be readily contacted in time of extreme emergency. The registration scheme is part of Red Cross civil defence planning and general disaster service.

A committee of six registered nurses has been set up under the Medical Aid and Hospitalization Division of the Red Cross Disaster Committee.

The committee intends to list all registered nurses, all under-graduate nurses, trained male nurses, hospital orderlies, practical nurses and persons with recognized home nursing experience.

Hospitals have already been approached with regard to assisting with registration of their personnel. An office downtown will be set up to register others in about two weeks' time.

VILLAGE UTOPIA

WITH CIVIC elections and the accompanying issues looming up on the local horizon, with adjacent municipalities deep in the throes of problems involving the secession of a large area from one administrative entity and its projected embrace by another, it is being forcibly brought home to us that the problem of making ends meet is as much of a headache in civic housekeeping as it is in private households—only more so.

And there is increasing evidence that ratepayers who move from old-established communities to new ones to escape city taxes are learning the lesson that you cannot have city amenities unless you are prepared to pay for them. For municipal governments can only spend as much as the ratepayers give them to spend, a lesson that other governments have also learned in the hard—and sometimes bitter—school of experience.

RARE RICHES

NOR IS THIS situation confined only to British Columbia, or even Canada. It is common the democratic world over, wherever there are communities governed by elected representatives of the people. And it probably exists even in the so-called Utopia behind the iron curtain—only we are not allowed to hear about it. Be that as it may, as long as human beings have citizenship rights they will probably go on asking for more and more and demanding to pay—or work—less and less for it.

That's why I opened my eyes in wonderment at reading, in an eastern paper, of a village which is such a rarity that it is suffering from an embarrassment of riches.

THRUST UPON IT

THIS PARTICULAR village, Lithopolis, in Ohio, had its riches thrust upon it. It seems that Mrs. Mabel Wagnalls Jones, daughter of one of the founders of the famous American publishing company of Funk and Wagnalls, was born in the village and died there about 10 years ago.

She and her father had both contributed generously to the community during their lifetime, and among her own gifts was a palatial $500,000 library and auditorium in memory of her parents. When she died she willed her entire fortune of $2,500,000 to the township council.

NO STRINGS ATTACHED

UNLIKE MOST benefactors, especially of such generous proportions, Mrs. Jones attached no strings to her beneficent bequest, nor hedged it about with protective provisos. She left it to the village "fathers" to do as they liked with the millions, spending it as they thought best for the good of the village and township, numbering about 1,200 inhabitants in all. So an enquiring newspaperman with a long memory made a special visit to Lithopolis not long ago to find out what the council had been able to do with all that money that had been poured so generously into their laps. And, believe it or not, he found the people of that Ohio township suffering from an embarrassment of riches—a rare community disease!

UNUSED BURSARIES

TAKE, FOR INSTANCE, the matter of bursaries. The township council set up a scheme whereby every boy or girl who matriculates from the local high school can get $800 a year to attend any university in the United States—without any restriction as to race, color or creed.

With so much talk of youngsters yearning for higher educational opportunities, and suffering the tortures of Freud's frustration when denied them, it is surprising to learn that out of 100 who graduated last June, only 13 applied for that university grant. It is the same with other schemes for spending the Wagnalls-Jones fortune.

MONEY BEGETS MONEY

THE TRUTH of the matter is that the township council finds itself in an awkward position, in that the interest on the $2,500,000 accumulates faster than the authorities can spend the principal. Such a situation sounds like something out of "Alice in Wonderland." It is also another reminder of the truth of the adage about "money begetting money." Nevertheless, I wouldn't mind betting a cookie to a holeless doughnut that many a municipality would be glad to change places with that township council and to exchange the embarrassment that comes from not enough money for the much rarer feeling that comes from having too much.

MacArthur Exceeded Aims In Korea, Says Shinwell

WINGATE, Durham, Eng. (CP)—Defence Minister Shinwell said today that Gen. MacArthur had gone beyond the objectives Britain understood applied in Korea.

He said he was not criticizing MacArthur. But he said Britain had tried to persuade the United States that the Korean campaign should be held within bounds.

In a speech in this little town, Shinwell said Britain had sought to prevail on the U.S. that "nothing should be done to bring us into conflict with China."

"At the moment it would appear that Gen. MacArthur went beyond the objective which we understood to be the objectives at the beginning of the affair; and that as a result we went up near the Manchurian border where there was a very large force of Chinese," Shinwell said.

"We know there were about 70,000 of them ready to fight."

MacArthur may have thought he was quite capable of dealing with them. Well, there may be far too many of them. Perhaps his intelligence was at fault.

"The position looks very grim indeed. There is no use deceiving ourselves," Shinwell said.

U.S. MARINES BREAK OUT

Slaughter Drug-Happy Reds To Escape Trap

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN

WITH U.S. 10TH CORPS, Northeast Korea (UP)—Drug-happy Chinese Communists rushing to their deaths by the hundreds . . . American Marines fighting barefooted in below-zero temperatures—that was the scene as the U.S. 5th and 7th Marine Regiments broke out of an encirclement by six Communist divisions near the Chosin Reservoir.

The two valiant marine regiments fought their way from Yum-dam and linked up with the remainder of the 1st Marine Division and two battered regiments of the 7th Army Division at Hagaru late Sunday. They had been fighting out of the trap for a week.

Behind them they left a trail of destroyed vehicles and equipment and burned tents, food rations and supplies—everything but personal equipment, weapons and ammunition.

They also left bloody piles of drugged Chinese fanatics who threw themselves to certain death in an effort to keep the Americans in the trap.

With the Marines came their dead and wounded—men who were carried away from the Communists at the sacrifice of tossing valuable equipment out of the trucks.

"If it hadn't been so cold it wouldn't have been so bad," said Sgt. Jack Arie, 24, of Fort Madison, Ia. "They bent our legs a little maybe and they cut us up a lot but they never got through us—and they never would have. But it was so damn cold."

SUB-ZERO WEATHER

The Marines fought the last 15 miles to Hagaru through deep mountain gorges covered with snow in temperatures that fell to 25 below zero.

They could not build fires. They were afraid to nap in sleeping bags for fear of a sudden attack.

Arie and his company were caught in sleeping bags by the first banzai attack on Nov. 28. "We came out of 'em fighting," Arie said. "We didn't have time to put on shoes. If you had on a pair of socks that's what you wore through the snow and cold all night."

"Some of the guys went barefooted all night," he added. "And a lot of 'em didn't walk so good after that."

'Messiah' Recital Sunday Issue May Go To Alliance

The Victoria Choral Society, which has been forced to reschedule its annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" from Sunday, Dec. 17, to Monday, Dec. 18, may apply to the Lord's Day Alliance in Canada, seeking its blessing to have such religious programs as this presented on Sundays in future years.

This suggestion has been made to the society by Sir Robert Holland, president, who noted the Bach Choir in England presented a religious program in a public hall each Easter Sunday. The presentation of the Messiah here was set back the one day because of the Lord's Day Alliance Act.

Steelworkers Will Seek Wage Hike In Canada

MONTREAL (BUP)—The powerful United Steelworkers of America was reported planning today to demand immediate wage talks with 240 Canadian firms.

An official of the union, a C.I.O.-C.L. affiliate, said a four-point wage program was adopted here Saturday by the union's national policy committee. Forty-nine delegates from coast to coast attended the day-long sessions.

The official, who declined to be identified, said the union believed its members were "entitled to a wage boost in view of the increased production and tremendously higher profits in industry."

He said a large number of industrial employees were living on weekly earnings less than they received in 1948. In addition, he said, the cost of living had "undermined" hourly wage rate gains that had been made.

Today Crucial Point In Calgary's Flood Fight

New Floods Roll Into Western U.S.

By Associated Press
Flood waters rolled into western Nevada and north-central California today as Ohio welcomed the arrival of a cold wave which halted a fast thaw and threatened widespread overflows.

In southwestern Illinois, the towns of Greenville and Mt. Olive added up a total of more than $750,000 property damage from Saturday's tornadoes which killed three persons and injured about 20 others.

The twister damaged between 90 and 100 homes. Two elderly women and a man were killed and 12 persons were hurt.

The man was killed when the tornado flipped his automobile 600 feet off a highway.

The flooding streams in California and Nevada sent about 5,000 persons fleeing from their homes Sunday night. The Yuba, American, Kings, Russian and Ash Rivers all were out of their banks or threatening to break through levees that had not been fully restored since the areas suffered about $25,000,000 damage from floods only two weeks ago.

The streams began rising during two days of rain in the region, still saturated from the earlier flooding.

Hardest hit was the Linda-Hammon area of California where 3,000 persons were forced to leave their homes. Another 1,000 fled their homes in the northern suburbs of Sacramento, and near Fresno, another 1,600 either fled or prepared to leave.

RACE BETTORS' 'LUCK' RUNS OUT

Jess Klein, investigator for the district attorney, said a track patron saw Gentile "doctoring" a ticket in a restaurant.

Klein said the men pasted winning numbers on tickets when the horse they'd picked failed to win.

Reds Downed In West Berlin Vote

ICE FROM SKY EXPLAINED

LONDON (Reuters)—Air Ministry meteorological experts have decided that chunks of ice which recently fell in the London area came from the wash-basin outlets of aircraft. Several large blocks of ice, some measuring more than 12 inches square, have fallen in London suburbs in the last two weeks.

Services May Be Costly To Secessionists

Saanich "panhandle" secessionists will find the services they want from Oak Bay may cost them more than they would in Saanich, in the opinion of Councilor L. H. Passmore.

"I have always argued that we have given this area more than its share of service," Councilor Passmore said today. "I haven't the slightest objection to their secession, but I felt we should offer them services under the same conditions that they will be given by Oak Bay."

It was Councilor Passmore who made the offer to seceding portions of Wards 1 and 3 at a recent council meeting, to provide various services under the local improvement plan.

He spoke today in connection with a statement by Denis Taylor, president of Richmond Ratepayers' Association, that the Saanich proposal implied "a plea for a second chance for the governing body of Saanich to prove itself capable of administering the affairs of its municipality in a more efficient way."

"We see Oak Bay with its paved streets, street lights, sewers, and adequate drainage, all obtained at about the same taxation," he said. "Is it any wonder we see it as the promised land and long to become part of it?" he said.

Western Teachers Plan Conference

3. "The public relations of the teacher (outside the school) in the community." (One conference.)
4. "Reconsideration of the constitution." (One conference.)
5. "Recommendation and resolutions." (One conference.)

Close Holy Doors
VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope today called a consistory of the College of Cardinals for Dec. 11 at which he will nominate three cardinals to close the holy doors of the basilicas of St. Mary Major, St. John Lateran and St. Paul Without the Walls.

Disregarding Red Threats and a Communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,664,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist Mayor Ernest Reuter, pledged continuance of their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin House of Deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats.

Five western splinter parties appearing on the ballot here for the first time each failed to win 5 per cent of votes and so got no seats in the new House.

When you have four small children depending on you to get up every morning and attend to their needs, a nagging backache can make life seem a weary, discouraging, hopeless affair!

"I can hardly believe that I feel so much better. Sarnak has certainly been good to me. I feel more like working and living now than I have for a long time."

"For five years I suffered backache which was due to a kidney condition. At times it was so painful that I could hardly get out of bed in the morning and life seemed useless to me. But with four small children, I had to be up and about."

"I tried many kinds of pills and remedies without success. Then I started taking Sarnak and within ten days I noticed a marked improvement. Now I feel like my old self again—and it's all thanks to Sarnak."

Woodward Voices Hope War Can Be Avoided

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Woodward, United States Ambassador to Canada, said today that no one "can be sure that a war will not come" and that the free world can only "hope for the best—and prepare for the worst."

"We hope to preserve the peace and to avoid war," he said in an address before a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs of Toronto.

"We must be ready to negotiate, but we must make it plain that we will not appease—that we will not sacrifice the principles we believe honest and real for any false hope of peace."

Woodward reviewed Canadian-American relationships, including the recently-negotiated agreement on economic co-operation. Truman and his government knew that Canada was anxious for an early start on the project and that, in the light of international emergency, the scheme had a "new urgency." The U.S.

government was prepared to back the project "most earnestly."

Canadians and Americans, long-time good neighbors, had found themselves "on the brink of the precipice—and we see before us the abyss of war."

"But when a crisis comes, we stand together. And the rest of the world has come to realize that Canada and the United States live and stand together—representing the North American view and a mutual approach to the problems of the day."

More Pork Wanted

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canada today called on its farmers to produce more pork and coarse grains and hold the line in wheat and other basic farm production in 1951, despite the threat of new price conflicts. The farmers got their orders from government spokesmen as optimistic economists told them 1951 would be a prosperous year.

Tito Warns Allies On A-Bomb Use

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Premier Tito warned today that use of the atom bomb in Korea would have "unfathomable consequences" and lead to the extension of the conflict into a third world war.

The Yugoslav premier gave this warning in answer to one of a series of questions submitted by Kingsbury Smith, European manager of the International News Service, the official Yugoslav Agency Tanjug reported.

Tito said the United States would lose a great deal both politically and morally by using the atom bomb in Korea.

The outcome of the Korean war was "no longer a matter of prestige, but of who is prepared to sacrifice more for the preservation of peace."

In answer to the question: Do you think it is possible to avoid extension of the Korean conflict? Tito replied:

"It should be possible if the United Nations preserve their 'sacred foid,' that is, if they do not for one moment lose sight of the fact that what is most important for mankind in these fateful times is to prevent a new world catastrophe."

Aligning Democracy's Policies

CLEAR EVIDENCE OF BRITAIN'S willingness to stand shoulder to shoulder with the United States in their traditional partnership was given by Prime Minister Attlee as he stepped from his plane in Washington today. His remarks will help to still talk of conflicting attitudes in the two countries in the face of further gains by Chinese Communists in Korea.

"Trouble," said Mr. Attlee, "always brings us together more closely than ever." As the political heads of the two great western democracies meet with their advisers, neither is without illusions about the gravity of the world situation. As much as they may focus their attention on Korea, neither is blind to the implications of the present conflict in other spheres. Both are clearly aware of the world wide responsibilities of their two countries. They meet now, as the British Prime Minister noted, "to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we know to be right." In this time of crisis President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee are fully informed on the menace confronting the way of life cherished by the democracies. They have before them the evidence of the means by which Communism is seeking to spread its hold not only over Asia, but stands poised to move westward in Europe. As the two leaders decide to move, so will much of the free world, represented in the United Nations, move with them.

This is the time for closing of ranks. As they take counsel together an anxious free world waits for the statement of joint policy which will provide leadership in the dangerous days ahead. The leaders of the two countries have faced dark times together before. History is not forgotten as the momentous talks start in Washington.

Why Aren't We Making Steel?

ANNOUNCEMENT SATURDAY BY Trade Minister C. D. Howe of a ban on the sale of primary steel for non-essential construction, starting Jan. 1, will have caused little surprise to the Canadian public. The demands for that material arising from defence needs are generally understood.

The people of this country know the times are not conducive to "business as usual." They understand that priorities must be established—priorities that will deny steel to interests wishing to build amusement centres, beverage plants and the like, so that more adequate precautions may be taken against attack. They doubtless see them as part of the austerity which lies ahead.

The decision does, however, lend emphasis to recent discussions on the establishment of the industry in British Columbia. In the near-war economy prevalent throughout the world, steel is in short supply. Under these circumstances, can Canada afford to ignore representations that have been made for the extension of production of that vital commodity to this coast?

Early in November, Hon. R. W.

Mayhew, Victoria's representative in the Dominion cabinet, pointed to certain developments which appeared to have made the establishment of the industry in British Columbia more feasible than it had been in the past. Mention was made of raw materials available at tide-water and of potentials that lend themselves to use in production. Not the least of these was the growing strength of the province.

Establishment of facilities for turning out steel is admittedly a matter on which expert opinion is needed, but there is direct conflict in the opinions which have been expressed by experts thus far. With the situation as it is, the public is entitled to know why development has not taken place in that field in British Columbia.

The matter is of vital importance to Canada as a whole, regardless of its possible future influence on the growth of this province. At least one proposal to advance the production of steel on the Dominion's Pacific Coast has been made public in recent days. It deserves study unimpeded by narrow, corporation interest.

Must We Do It All Again?

RENOVATION OF GORDON HEAD Camp as quarters for 500 members of anti-aircraft batteries, along with less obvious implementation of plans for increased defences on this coast, will bring home to local residents the new era of war preparation in which we find ourselves. No one would have been so pessimistic as to have predicted, when the camp was closed for training purposes little more than five years ago, that the buildings would be returned to military use after so short a time.

Hopes for several decades of peace have been shattered by the rise of an ever more militant dictatorship—a regime which in some respects makes Hitler's efforts appear almost trivial. Because greed and ambition and disregard for human rights govern the men of the Kremlin, peaceful areas such as Gordon Head must once more resound with marching men and defence preparations.

The war effort will be made, make no mistake about that. But it is tragic that a comparatively small handful of evil men can make anxiety, sorrow and death the constant prospect for the earth's two billion inhabitants.

They Are Still Coming

SEASONAL VARIATION PROBABLY has a good deal to do with it, but it is interesting to note that the influx of families into this province from other parts of Canada has been resumed. After a lapse of several months, during which departures were more numerous than arrivals, the movement is again under way, with 200 new families coming to B.C. during November in excess of those that left.

We are willing at this time of year to admit that climate no doubt is the deciding factor in many of the current moves. Alberta heads the list of provinces of origin, with Saskatchewan second. At the same time, the basic cause of the general postwar increase in our population continues. The prospects of British Columbia as an industrial and commercial area, as a favorable site for homesteading, as a land of opportunity for men and women of all ages to carve careers, as just a good place to live, have never been better. Apparently that fact still enjoys a wide appreciation outside our provincial boundaries as well as within them.

Cannot Explain The Resentment Against Good Man Like Acheson

By PETER EDSON from Washington

THEY'RE after Secretary of State Dean Acheson, hot and heavy, and the odds are that ultimately they will get him. For when a concerted effort is made by political hatchet men to chop a man down in this town, 99 times out of 100 it succeeds.

Secretary Acheson might be a hundredth man and he might escape. He says he will not resign under fire. President Truman has said that as long as he was in the White House, he would keep Dean Acheson as Secretary of State.

FULL SUPPORT

The secretary now has the full support of the entire State Department team. They like and admire him. They say that the morale of the department and the Foreign Service would be completely shot if Acheson were forced out, and that the conduct of America's international relations would be wrecked.

Acheson has the respect and confidence of the diplomatic corps in Washington, and of the heads of the foreign governments that are America's allies. They feel that he is their friend. They openly feel that they would be let down if Acheson were forced out and replaced by someone more acceptable to the isolationists.

Acheson has the co-operation of such

Republicans as John Foster Dulles, Ambassador Warren Austin, ex-Senator John Sherman Cooper and others on the United Nations staff and in diplomatic posts abroad. But this support does him little good when such people as ex-Gov. Harold Stassen, Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin go after him, and when his policies are under constant attack by Republican leaders like Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Newspaper editors from various parts of the country report that Acheson is mistrusted by their readers. And the whole State Department is under suspicion.

PARADOX

Trying to find out why presents a paradox. The opposition is something instinctive, something personal. It is applied to the whole Department of State set-up.

Secretary Acheson himself runs a heavy speaking schedule. He seems to make a good impression. Off the platform, he holds his liquor well. He can tell a gentle story with the next one. His profanity in anger is all that could be desired of any man. He owns and runs a farm on the side. As a hobby he works in his carpentry shop. Still he doesn't jell. Maybe it's that moustache.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MRS. NOGGIN'S interest in liquor is purely academic. As the more ancient readers of this record may recall, she is a famous maker of parsnip wine, but it can hardly be called liquor. It is an explosion and, I suspect, the real origin of the atomic bomb. She was speaking academically today when she laid before me the latest report of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture showing that Canadians are spending a billion dollars a year on liquor and tobacco.

"It turns out," said she, "that wot we spend on drink and smoke is about a third of wot we spend on food and about as much as we spend on clothes. A lot of us would druther drink than eat. We'd druther go naked than stop inhaling nicotine. And 'alf the money we spend on drink and smoke goes to the govern'mint in taxes. So you mustn't despise the drinker and the smoker. Why 'e is the most 'erotic taxpayer of the ages."

"THE govern'mint can rely on 'is patriotism. If 'e was ever to let the govern'mint down by drinkin' or smokin' in moderation the public treasury would go bankrupt. But trust the Canadian people. There is no danger of moderation. Temperance will never rear its ugly 'ead. Anscumb can count on the drinker's last full measure of devotion—well diluted, of course, with water, by dear old Bill Kennedy and the Liquor Board, the great diluters. The govern'mint can be sure of the smoker's sublime determination to poison 'imself at the call of public juty. As patriots we'll guzzle and inhale ourselves into solvency."

"I seen in the papers that the govern'mint of B.C. is spendin' a tiny mite of their liquor taxes to educate the young against liquor. I dare say when that idea was started every finance minister in the country shook 'is boots and 'Erb must of wondered if 'is budget would stand the strain when the young stopped drinkin'."

"WELL, they underestimated the public patriotism. After bein' educated against liquor the young is drinkin' more than ever. They seen their juty to the treasury and they done it. You can watch 'em doin' it in every cabaret with the bottles piled under the table—a sight to warm a finance minister's 'eart and renew your faith in democracy."

"The govern'mint can afford to spend a few dollars on temperance education for there's no real danger of it succeedin' so long as the govern'mint keeps up 'is 'igh pressure salesmanship in the liquor stores and the brewin' monopoly is on the job."

"NACHERALLY a man would druther pay taxes on 'is liquor and cigarettes than on 'is income. When you pay three dollars or so in taxes on a bottle at least you've got the bottle, even if it's diluted. When you pay 21 cents in taxes on a package of cigarettes, over a cent for every smoke, at least you've got the smoke. But when you pay income taxes wot 'ave you got? Nothin' but baby bonuses, old age pensions, roads, post offices, 'ospitals and the defence of the nation."

"PEOPLE don't like to pay income taxes because they know when they're payin' 'em. They'd druther pay taxes on whisky because they can kid themselves they're not payin'—especially after a few drinks. As Uncle 'Erbert uster say when 'e was an alderman in Liverpool, the art of public finance is to take the public's money out of its back pocket when it isn't lookin'. A good public treasurer, 'Erbert said, can learn a lot from an experienced pick-pocket. The trouble was 'Erbert learned too much and the judge at the trial couldn't be persuaded that 'Erbert was merely actin' like a statesman. And the only reward 'Erbert got for a lifetime of sound public finance was 20 years in the cooler."

"AS 'ERBERT always said, the courts don't understand money or they wouldn't put small-time counterfeiteres in jail while govern'mints everywhere is counterfeitin' all the time and in the last ten years in Canada 'as swiped 'alf the value of your dollar and plundered your savin's. Tis all very correct and legal, but that don't 'elp you none when you come to pay the grocery bill."

"But wot I mean to say is Joe Stalin must be larfin' over 'is vodka when 'e 'ears us groanin' about taxes for defence and us spendin' still more money, without a word of complaint, for liquor and tobacco. Old Joe is smart enough to know we can't fight Communism with alcohol and smoke."

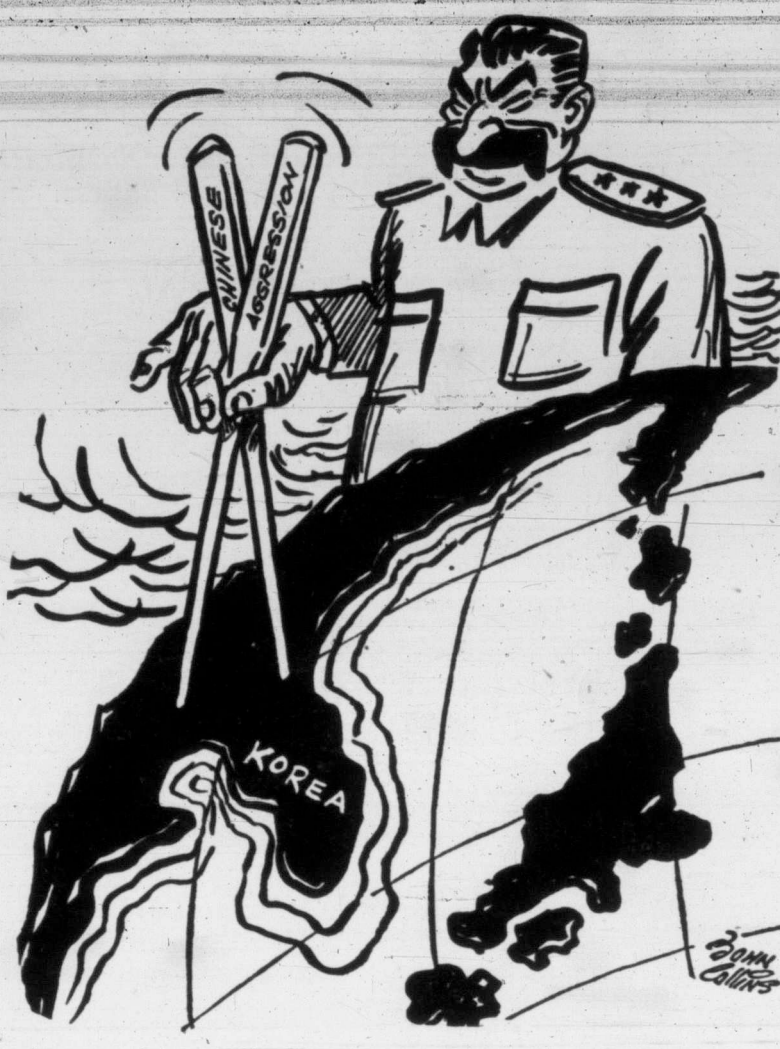

"And 'e knows somethink else, too—in this 'ere cold war most of the people of the world 'ave no alcohol or smoke and not enough food in their stummicks or clothes on their backs, and those are the people who can't make up their minds whether to throw in with us or with Joe."

"SO WE tell 'em to throw in with us and they'll get a 'igher livin' standard like ours, and that's a fair argument. But then all them desperate and doubtful people across the sea, they look at us, and they see we're spendin' billions on liquor and tobacco and cars and lipsticks and radios and fancy bath tubs and all like that, and they wonder if we really care a hoot about savin' the world from starvation and Communism."

"Tis no wonder they wonder. Tis no wonder we've bin losin' the cold war so fast. But we don't notice it through the cigarette smoke and the cheerful amber tint of a five-dollar bottle, worth about 30 cents."

There can be no universal peace unless there is universal disarmament—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

As Our Readers See It

FIRST CAUSE

Once again Mr. Pepper assures us that there is no evidence of Creation, but that Evolution is the answer to every phase of existence, organic and inorganic. The antiquity of man and age of the world, true or false, cannot verify the evolutionary hypothesis. Mr. Pepper must be able to explain a First Cause, the power that operates the universe, and Life itself before he can give one iota of actual proof or disproof.

GOOD WORD FOR GOOD DEED

Kindly allow the writer enough of your valuable space to praise the work of two Saanich policemen, Eddie Anderson and Walter Mycock.

A few days ago the Saanich ambulance was called to convey an old friend with a broken leg, to St. Joseph's Hospital. The two constables responded quickly and their kindness and care to make the aged lady comfortable is worthy of commendation. Hats off to them.

MAGIC FORMULA

During the course of my several tilts with Mr. Cadwallader through the goodness of your letters column, I have been at no little pains to examine into his claims that the Bible contains a national gospel as well as a gospel of personal salvation. As a result I am compelled to agree with his conclusions that the Bible does in deed and fact give a magic formula that is able to produce an economic state "beyond the fondest dreams of economists and philosophers."

As we consider that "the best laid schemes of mice and men" have ended disastrously in trying to solve our problems, surely the only logical proceeding would be for our representatives of church and state to examine with all diligence God's world-plan. What saith the populace?

Remember, God positively guarantees His promises, the U.N.O. does not.

PANHANDLE

Your correspondent, Mr. Ballantyne, a resident of the "panhandle" area which proposes to join with Oak Bay evidently did not get the full meaning of your editorial opposing the move. The point is not so much that residents of that area and of Cadboro Bay want "something for nothing." The main fact is that they can get what they want—by paying for it as local improvements—equally as well from Saanich as from Oak Bay. And it will cost them just as much if they switch to the other municipality. There will be no saving by that.

As far as "frantic last-minute offers" of improvements by the Saanich Council are concerned, these areas for years have been offered improvements on a "pay for what you get" basis. The Panhandle's veteran councillor, Tom Alexander, grew hoarse making that fact plain to all.

Residents shouldn't let themselves get stampeded by the withdrawal of Ward Six, which was based on an entirely different argument.

"SAANICH."

WILL RESIGNING SAVE US?

According to an item in Thursday's Times President Truman has stated that the atom bomb will be used if necessary to meet the military situation.

I am under the impression that the Korean war is no longer a private war of the U.S.A. but one waged under the direction of the United Nations. Therefore, I maintain that the President has no authority to authorize the use of the atom bomb or any other nefarious weapon.

I did not sign the "Ban the Bomb" petition because this was only a negative proposal to abolish war, and, in my opinion, the only way to abolish war is to abolish restrictions on trade, travel and settlement. And, unfortunately, none of the countries involved in the present struggle, either in action or on the side lines, have proposed such basic proposals.

If the atom bomb is used, or even authorized, the Canadian forces should be recalled and we should resign from the United Nations, for participation in one more war means that we shall live under a totalitarian government, irrespective of whether or not we are on the winning side.

CIVIC ELECTIONS

Victoria is a windy city, but when the time for an election comes along we hear a different kind of wind. Candidates in the running again, tell us all the wonderful things they have done as our representatives on the council. They do not tell us anything about the many broken pie-crust promises. One very vivid in my mind is a promise from year to year to place a red safety light at Oak Bay Junction, the most dangerous spot in this city. They won't even put yellow safety lines, and we rarely see a policeman here now.

The general public has not been satisfied with many things on this council for many years, yet they put the same ones back again. Why?

May I say if representatives are allowed to stay in too long, they get to feel they own the city and can't be done without. I would also suggest the recall system whereby if they don't do as they should they be asked to leave politics.

MRS. A. MARSHALL.

ATOMIC WAR

Now if Atomic War should come, God save us all from this disaster to humanity, the end of "civilization" it possibly might be! To utterly destroy mankind, annihilate the race, and all living things.

That great soul Gandhi, realized that Right was Might, and that "One with God was a majority." One does not hear much these days of a non-violent approach to life, but the grim march of political events points inexorably to the truth that without spiritual vision the people perish.

One may say—without fear of contradiction that violence has failed to solve justly a single world problem. When man employs the law of the jungle to effect his ends, he acts as an animal, and not as a man. The unique human faculty denied to all other creatures, is reason.

Are we Christians? We have developed our intellects at the cost of our spiritual development, we have made great strides in knowledge, science and art in surface culture and refinement, but have forgotten God!

Travel Diary

Another In a Series

By I. NORMAN SMITH

Associate Editor of The Ottawa Journal

ISTANBUL, Turkey—This, too, was somewhat of a day, but there's no news in it, and if my purely personal travel experiences bore the teeth out of you just turn over to the funnies, which are brighter and in large type. I borrowed a sharp knife today and dipped it in indelible ink and carved on to my forearm five times: "Never visit Egypt again." Apart from not liking the place, a point I believe I hinted at yesterday, I'm convinced that the next time I touch Cairo's airport it will be fatal.

Smith

A month ago an engine broke down on one plane I was on at this port and I lost a day, and the next day a propeller stopped in midair a few miles from the place and we limped back, spewing gasoline all over the desert so we could land.

Today, too short a time after the sun's golden rays had lit up the desert's dung holes, my plane taxied on to the tarmac and we were off for Athens. Or we would have been except that we blew two tires on the runway and had to chug back in and lose an hour and a half while they were being changed.

GOT CLEAR

However, as this date-line shows, I did finally get clear of Egypt (or will, after I get a bath when I finish this). After a three and a half hour run to Athens over the very blue and silent sea, I scurried from one plane to another and hid off for Ankara, I thought.

Ankara being the capital of Turkey, it seemed I should hit it first and unload all my array of questions before coming to Istanbul (Constantinople), where I'm told lies all the charm and beauty of Turkey.

But such is life in the air that when we got to Istanbul I learned the Turkish Government Airline plane had just a few moments earlier taken off for Ankara. It seems that timetables and connections and such are held in disrepute here.

So after duly telephoning to Ankara to tell some people who were turning my bed down there that I was going to sleep in Istanbul that night, I drove over Istanbul's historic hills and bypasses, around its watery reaches to reach a splendid hotel with a room walled with windows overlooking the harbor and the sea of Marmora.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS

I like it here, says he, voicing first impressions. I like it here. I have a feeling I'd like to come back here for a real visit. Or am I just saying "yah yah" to Cairo? Anyway, this stint is finished and with the aid of the kick of an elephant I'm about to sleep a full night's sleep with no plane buzzing in my ears until tomorrow afternoon.

But before I go, just a brief yarn I read in the Egyptian Gazette yesterday: a businessman complaining of high taxes is suing the government for failure to live up to promises in the Speech from the Throne that taxes would be reduced. He is taking it to court and his sole document and evidence is going to be the Throne Speech.

If this works out it seems to me it is a dodge we might use at home with some success. Imagine getting an idea out of Egypt!

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"I SEE," said the Elevator Man, "where one of the war correspondents has written back that life aboard a Canadian destroyer is like being packed together tighter than sardines. Day or night, he says, there's no privacy, no chance to get by yourself to read a book or to think. The reason in this case, of course, is that the ship is built first to carry guns, then the men are stuck in around them, wherever there's room. But while there's good reason for shipboard crowding there isn't the same excuse for what we're doing in our cities. We're dividing more and more open country into tiny lots and crowding houses on them. We're jamming our activities into central areas and getting bogged down because we can't all drive our cars there at the same time. We're beginning to realize we haven't been very smart about planning where and how we'll live—but in most cases it's too late to do anything about it. Lower man!"

"Now and then," said the Elevator Man, "someone likes to give an appearance of crowdedness in order to save more room for himself. There was an old story of a grumpy guest traveling in England who tried to take over a whole railway compartment by spreading over one seat and putting his bag on the other. That seat's taken, the bag belongs to a friend of mine," he snapped at a young fellow who stepped in. "Fine," says the newcomer smiling. "I'll just sit here till he comes and hold the bag on my lap." When the train started, the young man looked up startled, then turned and heaved the bag out of the window. "Your friend must have missed the train," he explained; "but we wouldn't want him to lose his luggage." Then with a smile he settled himself for the journey. Going down!

"As the poet put it," said the Elevator Man, "three's a crowd. But two can be a crowd, too. And there's even people who feel crowded when they're all by themselves. Hey, Adolf? Hey, Joe?"

New Inspection Services Head

OTTAWA (CP)—Philip S. Conroy, O.B.E., of Ottawa, has been appointed director of inspection services for the defence department; it was announced today. He succeeds W. Gordon Mills, who will retire shortly.

The branch Mr. Conroy now heads handles inspection of all stores and equipment to ensure standards and specifications of materials ordered for the department by the Canadian Commercial Corporation.

His predecessor, Mr. Mills, was responsible for reorganizing the joint Canadian-United Kingdom inspection board into a purely Canadian service following the Second World War.

4 BRITONS GET LIFT FROM REDS

A U.S. ARMY HOSPITAL, Korea (AP)—Four British Tommies in a stalled weapon carrier got a push from obliging Chinese Communist soldiers.

The Communists permitted them to withdraw from a danger spot 15 miles north of Pyongyang.

Gunner Jimmy Moore, 24, of the 29th British Brigade, said one of the Reds told them, "We don't want to hurt you guys. We just want you to get off the peninsula."

THE HOME GARDEN

Now Is Time To Treat Peach Tree For Curl

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Before December advances any further we should be giving thought to our peach trees. Many have been planted in this district during the past five years and the results have been variable.

Peach Leaf Curl is the one bad disease with which we have to contend. The leaf-tissue puckers along the centre vein, giving a distorted appearance, and color changes to a glistening red-yellow.

Most of the affected leaves will drop off, and these are replaced by a second crop, which leads gardeners to believe that no damage has been done. But the vitality of the tree has been weakened, and repeated attacks are fatal. It also interferes with the setting of the fruit and affected trees are more susceptible to winter-kill.

Every spring, when gardeners see the damage on their tree, we have dozens of questions as to what should be done. Nothing can be done at that time; action must be taken now.

Peach Leaf Curl is a fungous disease, the spores of which spend the winter on the buds. To be effective, control must be practiced before January 1.

Bordeaux mixture is the spray to use. The prepared powder may be purchased from your garden supply store, and the directions on the packet should be carefully followed.

For years the 4-4-10 strength has been recommended but I notice the 1947 issue of the fruit tree spray calendar (B.C. Dept. Agric.) advises 4-6-40. If you can purchase this strength, well and good; if not, use the 4-4-40.

The essential point is to get the spray on the trees before it is too late, and this warning will give you time to choose a good day for doing the job; a day when the temperature is well above freezing.

Rubber-Stamp Vote In Romania

VIENNA (AP)—Romania's voters, under the watch of secret police and Russian troops, gave rubber-stamp approval at the polls Sunday to 80,000 Communist candidates for several thousand local councils.

The councils, extending from regional to rural bodies, will strengthen Communist control over southeast Europe's largest agricultural and oil-producing state, western experts in Vienna say.

The voters were given no choice but to approve candidates selected by the Communist-run People's Democracy Front. To make sure the vote would be almost 100 per cent for its candidates, the government posted lists of all registered voters.

'King's Barber' Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Paul E. (Red) Tasse, barber to Royalty and a personal friend of two Canadian prime-ministers, died early today.

The 62-year-old red-thatched barber, who for years handled the No. 1 chair in the barber shop of Ottawa's swank Chateau Laurier Hotel, had been ill for several months, suffering from cancer. He had retired on a pension.

Tasse made news more than once because of his close friendship with the late W. L. Mackenzie King and the late Viscount Bennett. He served them as barber for years and sometimes they confided their troubles to him.

In an interview not long before his death, Tasse recalled some of the impressions he had gained of the two prime ministers. He told, too, of some of the incidents that occurred in 1939 when he served as the King's barber on the Royal train that carried King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their tour of Canada.

Ship-Shore Radio To Reduce, Waits At Johnson St. Bridge

Those comparatively long waits by motorists and pedestrians while vessels pass under Johnson Street Bridge will be substantially reduced in the future. A ship-to-shore radio will be installed and maintained by the Island Tug and Barge Co. for use of the bridge operator. If a log boom is going under the bridge when a high-masted tug is off the breakwater, skipper of the latter vessel can reduce speed for better timing on his arrival at the bridge. Also, delays while the bridge is up and the ship is approaching it can be cut to a minimum. Another plan which may be put into effect to augment the radio set-up is for installation of flashing red and amber lights on the structure facing towards the harbor. Flashing red would mean the bridge will not go up, the amber that it will, and mariners can govern themselves accordingly. The lights would be put in by the city.

U.S. To Ask Congress Vote St. Lawrence Way

Ambassador Tells Toronto Clubs Move For Approval Will Be Made Next Year

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Woodward, United States ambassador to Canada, said today his government realizes the urgency of the St. Lawrence Seaway and hydro project, and plans to press for its adoption by Congress in 1951. In an address at a joint meeting of the Toronto Canadian and Empire Clubs, he said he recently had discussed the project with President Truman in Washington. "I told him," said Mr. Woodward, "how much Canada wants to see a start on the project. He replied: 'So do we. It's an urgent matter and I intend to press it at the next session of Congress.'"

Mr. Woodward said the executive branch of the U.S. government realizes the project "has a new urgency."

"We know the demands of the present situation call for a start on the project and for its completion as rapidly as it is physically possible. 'In the United States, as in Canada, and as in the countries of our partners and allies, we are building up our military strength, believing strength is the best guarantee of peace. Armed might is based on industrial might. Industrial might, in turn, is based on constant growth and development. 'New and better power sources and new and better means of transportation are needed to help develop an efficient industrial system. The St. Lawrence project will provide both.'"

Mr. Woodward cited the advantages of the project—cheap and more abundant power for industrial Ontario and New York State; an economical sea route into the heart of the continent, and a safe and economical route for the shipment of needed iron ores from the rich new fields of Labrador.

Full Censorship Urged In Korea

TOKYO (Reuter)—Lt. Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, administrative commander of all British Commonwealth troops in Japan and Korea, today allocated censorship to ensure the safety of United Nations forces.

Voluntary censorship has been in force in Korea since the war began. Gen. MacArthur's public relations officer had no comment to make on the statement.

Eight-Year-Search Ends Successfully For Girl Lost During Java Invasion

SINGAPORE (AP)—The patient efforts of a Dutch mother triumphed today over the hostile cries and glares of pretty 13-year-old Maria Bertha Hertogh, who Saturday was torn from the life of a Moslem child bride and returned to her parents' custody. Maria's repeated cries of hatred for her mother, Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, during the Supreme Court battle which ended in the annulment of her marriage to a Malayan Moslem school teacher suddenly stopped. The child fell sobbing into her mother's arms. She kissed her mother for the first time in eight years—eight years of life among Malayan natives who brought her up as a Mohemmedan. Mrs. Hertogh, who lost track of her child in 1942 during the Japanese occupation of Java, showered her with kisses and caresses in a tender scene of recognition at the Catholic Good Shepherd convent. Mrs. Hertogh is a Roman Catholic. Maria is being held there pending an appeal by her former Malayan foster mother, Che Aminah, and the husband from whom she was separated.

men to join them!

Young men with ambition (and backbone) can usually recognize opportunity when they meet "Her" — and never did opportunity knock so loudly as now, on our own Vancouver Island. If we were to rename our Island now, Macdonald's would suggest "Isle of Opportunity." Established less than 20 years ago, Macdonald's of Victoria has become one of Canada's largest independent dealers in Electrical Appliances . . . and in a great new expansion program for 1951, plan to establish stores in every community of the Island and to serve the homes of the Island through a group of specially selected and carefully trained salesmen.

And you are invited to consider this opportunity for a successful business career. Here is a real "business chance" for some 20 to 30 young men who are willing to work and learn. And it's a chance to get into a solid worthwhile business — a business in which they will help to make happier, healthier homes with every sale they make.

You need not have had previous experience — if you are the right kind of man, we will train you to sell and pay you while you train. All Macdonald employees (and their families) enjoy full medical and salary insurance, paid for entirely by the firm.

If you would like to join this great Macdonald expansion program, beginning with 1951, write and tell us about yourself. Later we will arrange interviews for suitable applicants. We want men who will succeed and win promotion and good pay. Sit down now — write and tell us why you think you could "make good"!

VIEWS OF SPORT

By RED SMITH

NEW YORK—Walter O'Malley, of the Dodgers, is a rookie among baseball club presidents, not yet dry behind the swivel chair, but he learns fast. He bowed from the waist as he pushed Burt Shotton down the laundry chute, and told the assembled press:

"I want it understood that I have a great deal of respect and admiration for Shotton. He did a fine job with Brooklyn. He had the best record of any Dodger manager."

Not even a fellow who had been in the game as long as Connie Mack or Clark Griffith could come up with a choicer, juicier, richer blend of gobbledegoo about a manager he was pitching to the street.

In one season, as a stand-in for Leo Durocher, and in two summers as the licensed Merlin of Brooklyn, Shotton managed two pennant winners and one team that was in contention until the last put-out of the last game. For this performance, incomparably the best Brooklyn has known in the borough's 60 years of National League baseball, he received as reward a telephone call to this effect: "Hit the road, bum."

When a man has more than a million dollars invested in a ball club he grows antennae which are more sensitive than radar and vibrate like fiddle strings in response to public sentiment. Burt Shotton enjoyed no great personal popularity in Brooklyn, and when attendance in Ebbett's Field fell off half a million last summer, his popularity with the stockholders was not greatly enhanced.

Stupid, Wasn't It?

He does not have the flamboyant personality which fires the imagination of the fans, and he did not have, by and large, a friendly press. In his public relations, he made two major mistakes: He neglected to acknowledge the superior baseball wisdom of some inmates of the press box; when asked a stupid question he yielded to the impulse to reply: "That is a stupid question."

As if these faults were not grave enough, he recently committed the unforgivable sin of going hunting with his life-long friend, Branch Rickey, who had quit the Dodgers and gone over to the enemy in Pittsburgh. "That," Mr. O'Malley said, speaking of the hunting trip, "represented new complications."

The Dodger president, however, has made it clear that he is not a man to hold a grudge, however great the provocation.

"I want Barney Shotton to carve out a job for himself in this organization," O'Malley has said. "If he can define the capacity we'll do our darndest, we'll even bend over backwards, to help him stay."

So Much Double Talk

An interpreter was borrowed from the United Nations and put to work on this statement. He reported that the code was an unfamiliar one but seemed to mean that Shotton had only to name the job he wanted in the Brooklyn organization, and it would be his. Barney wanted the job of manager.

"No," Mr. O'Malley said, "people like to see the manager in uniform."

Let that be a lesson to Connie Mack. If he'd worn flannels instead of that hard collar, he might have carved out a permanent job for himself as a manager.

Shotton feels that he got a fast shuffle from the new Brooklyn administration. He can't be blamed for feeling so. Indeed, he could hardly feel otherwise.

The man they have chosen to brighten the corner where Shotton sat is a sharp, lively little guy whose baseball wisdom is at least the equal of any in the press box. Nobody quarrels with Charley Dessen's reputation as a keen character around the ball parks.

Enter Leo, The Giant

Charley was so highly esteemed by his employers, when he served as a coach of the Dodgers, that when Leo MacPhail crossed the river to become president of the Yankees, he bid high for Dessen, paying him $22,500—an extraordinary salary for a coach—to join the Yankees. O'Malley says he did his best to keep Dessen with the Dodgers.

In Brooklyn, Dessen was the lieutenant and companion spirit of Leo Durocher. They have many qualities in common, a quick aggressiveness, a lively awareness of what's going on, a keen grasp of tactics, a willingness to gamble. They were great friends; they split noisily during the Durocher-MacPhail quarrel in the spring of 1947 they will be spirited as leaders of the Dodgers and Giants.

Both these teams are expected to be pennant contenders next season. Their transatlantic warfare promises an interesting summer.

PRYKE-CLARKE VICTORS

Golf Buttons Return To Familiar Setting

The city senior and junior golf buttons are once more being worn by members of Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Reminiscent of the days when Bob Fleming and John Merriman held a stranglehold on both sets of lapel ornaments, Joe Pryke and Jack Clarke Sunday captured the senior buttons while Merriman and Ron Shea were retaining the junior variety.

Pryke and Clarke trimmed the holders, Oak Bay's Dr. George Bigelow and B.C. Amateur champion Jim Squire, 3 and 2, at Gorge Vale, while Merriman and Shea, were defeating Einar Brynjolfsson and Tom McIlveen, also of Oak Bay, 4 and 3, at Victoria Club.

Two up at the turn, Pryke and Clarke won the 11th and 14th while losing the 13th. The final two holes were halved. Winners had a best ball of 73, losers 75.

CHARLES TO FACE BARONE IN TITLE BOUT TUESDAY

CINCINNATI (AP)—The spotlight of the boxing world will centre on Cincinnati tomorrow night as Ezzard Charles and challenger Nick Barone battle it out in the first heavyweight title fight in Ohio since 1940.

No heavyweight champion has defended his crown in the state since Jack Dempsey gained the title July 4, 1919, by flooring Jess Willard.

When the smooth-working negro enters the ring at Cincinnati Garden tomorrow night, it will represent his fifth title, defence since winning the National Boxing Association version of the championship June 22, 1949.

His opponent tomorrow, the rough-and-tough Barone, has the advantage of youth on his side. Barone is 24 to Charles' 29.

Tricky Lions Stem The Crimson Tide

The two Vancouver Bills—Saines and Kinder—are seen in a dribble drive toward the Victoria bastion in Saturday's McKeechne Cup game at Macdonald Park. Coming in from the left is speedy Victoria right wing three-quarter Lorne Prevost.

In the background two Vancouver players can be seen sporting noseguards for protection to snuffers injured in mainland league play. Vancouver won 16 to 11. (See story, page 9.)

City Ice Loop Idle; Tirenmen Sign Player

There will be no games in the Commercial Hockey League to night or the remainder of the week, it has been announced by league officials.

The appearance of the Ice Cycles has caused the postponement. The next regular league action will take place Dec. 11 with Douglas Tire meeting Navy at 7; Meteors clashing with Capitals at 8:30 and Fishermen tangling with Civil Service at 10. Latest import to join the league according to an announcement from Douglas Tire officials is Dennis Carroll. He is an experienced right winger who reportedly played with the New York Rovers for the past two years.

Lumley Breaks Nose; Teams Break Even In N.H.L. Week-End Action

Six National Hockey League teams expended considerable effort and absorbed some physical punishment in order to get nowhere this week-end.

The six paired off for spirited home-and-home battles that left the league standings precisely as they had been before the first puck was fired.

The league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs played to 0 to 0 and 3 to 3 tie with Chicago Black Hawks. Detroit Red Wings shattered Montreal Canadiens 7 to 1 in Montreal and took a 4 to 1 lacing from the aroused Habitués in Detroit. New York Rangers shaded the Bruins 3 to 2 in Boston and dropped a 5 to 3 decision on home ice.

The scoreless nature of the Saturday-night struggle might make it sound like a goalkeepers' dream. Actually it was a goalkeepers' nightmare as both starting netminders spent some time in the Maple Leaf Gardens Hospital.

Leaf rookie Al Rollins went out at the 6:50 mark of the second period when a Hawk's shot opened a 12-stitch gash over his left eye. Veteran Walter (Turk) Broda took over and replaced him in the nets Sunday night.

A few minutes after Rollins retired, Chicago's Harry Lumley stopped a puck with his nose, but finished the game and played Sunday night despite the result-

Player Shortage Seen For Minors

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Baseball's minor leagues, the spawning grounds for the majors, began battling for their existence today.

A desperate manpower situation, brought on by the Korean crisis, left it doubtful how many of the 57 minor leagues which survived last year could carry on in 1951.

Part of the answer will come out today as the top minor league circuits, the class triple A, the double A and the A draft players from the lower minors. These leagues are virtually sure to operate next year, even in the event of another full-scale war.

When they get through, the lower minors will complete the drafting, and when it's all over baseball executives will have a general idea of how many men they can count on to carry on. President George Trautmann of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues—the minors—estimated it would take nearly 10,000 ball players to make sure that all leagues in operation last year would be back in business next season.

"And we just don't know if we are going to have that many," he said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

The problem was for the minors to obtain—or hold on to—players who are military draft-proof. That is even going to be a problem for the majors—let alone the minors which opened their annual winter meetings today. The majors follow with their annual December sessions next week.

In all, some 3,000 ball players were up for the minor league draft, but of that number at least half may be in the armed forces before the next baseball season opens.

ing fracture. Toronto winger Howie Meeker was another casualty Saturday, suffering a twisted knee that kept him from making the Chicago trip.

RAWKS WINGS?

The Hawks, possibly inspired by the presence of five of last year's Stanley-Cup-winning Red Wings in the line-up, opened a two-goal lead in the Sunday encounter, but faded in the last period to concede a point to the visitors.

Acquisition of defenceman Lee Fogolin and winger Steve Black in a week-end trade for Vic Stasiuk leaves Chicago with only three men who haven't worn a Detroit uniform. But the Hawks looked like champs for two periods only.

Boyes Leaves Bench To Inspire Viduials

With slim Bobby Boyes, formerly of the Alberni Athletics, supplying the spark, coach Art Chapman's Individuals Saturday night scored their most impressive cage win of the young season by stopping Federal Old Line of Seattle, 50 to 44.

It was the second straight victory for the Viduials, who a week ago edged Alberni by one point, and the club showed its best form of the year in downing the highly rated visitors.

And it was Boyes, who has yet to draw starting assignment, who rallied the club from a third period lapse to preserve the triumph.

The Viduials started quickly against the ex-Collegians from Seattle and at one time in the first half held an 11-point margin. Apparently underestimating the prowess of the Federals, the club then went into a defensive lapse and by half time saw their lead cut to a mere 26 to 23 edge.

ONLY LEAD
Ted Davis, a burly negro, and Ralph Buckley, a slender ball hawk, kept forcing the pressure as the second half got under way and within four minutes the Federals had taken their only lead of the game at 30 to 29.

It was then that Boyes rose to the occasion and ably assisted by the long-range sniping of Johnny Clark and the stellar defensive performance of altar-bound Doug Peden, the Viduials halted the visitors cold and by three-quarter time had regained a five-point edge at 37 to 32.

The increased their margin to 10 points mid way through the final period and then held off a strong closing spurt by Federals. Boyes picked up 10 points, two less than Johnny Clark, who for the third straight game took scoring honors. Buckley was with the best of the visitors with 10.

PLAY AT ALBERNI

The Viduials will make their first away-from-home appearance this Saturday when they travel to Alberni to meet Porky Andrews' Athletics. On Dec. 16 the locals tangle with Buchanan's Bakery of Seattle at the Badminton hall.

In a preliminary to the Federal-Viduials' contest, Shamrocks ran roughshod over Scott and Peden, 52 to 31. Ex-Vidua Fred Ranson paced the attack with 17 points followed by Ernie Fox with an even dozen.

The result put the Rocks in a first place tie with Arrow Furniture in the Men's Senior B League race.

Teams and scorers follow:
Federals-Davis 9, Hanning 8, Hill 4, Hanning 4, Smith 3, Bentley 10, Janicki 4. Total 44.
Individuals-Hendry 1, Clark 12, Toboy 8, Peden 8, Calkins 3, Boyes 10, Total 50.
Scott & Peden-John 5, O'Brien 4, Bird 2, Davidson, Oakley 6, Anderson 5, Prior, Boughey 4, Watson 1, Total 31.
Shamrocks-Peterson 6, Fox 12, Ranson 17, McCahey 8, Ellis 4, Baker 5. Total 52.

'Birds Edge North Shore

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds successfully opened defence of their McKechnie Cup rugby laurels at Vancouver, Saturday, by edging North Shore, 3 to 0, before a slim crowd at Varsity Stadium.

Austin Taylor scored the only points in the game with a penalty kick from 40 yards out in the second half. The Birds held a wide margin on play but were listless when in scoring position.

Senior B Feature Tops Hoop Card

Three games will be played in the Victoria and District Basketball League at the High School gym tonight.

Fletcher's Men's Wear will meet Scott and Peden in the Senior B men's feature at 9; St. Louis College and Chinese Students of the Intermediate B Boys League will tangle at 7, and McDonald's will clash with Comets in a women's fixture at 8.

SCHEDULE CUT

Minor Hockey Players To See Cougar Games

Victoria Minor Hockey Association faces a curtailed schedule this week with one game carded for Thursday morning plus the usual Saturday morning slate.

The scheduled Island Junior League game between Vics and Navy has been postponed, as have all ice activities at the arena Wednesday, in order that the time clock may be installed.

However, the association will be guests of the Cougars at the next three Friday night games of the P.C.H.L. club.

Bantam section players will be

ROGER'S WIFE TAKES JIBES OF BOOSTERS

Leads Club On First Trip In Support Of Team

By LANCE WHITTAKER

No, sir! She don't froze yet in Mo'ral."

The sparkling, mischief-filled eyes of Yvette Leger challenged teasing Jack Cooper as the Cougar Boosters sat in a chin-wagging session yesterday aboard the Princess Joan.

The pretty wife of Cougar coach Roger Leger was the centre of attention and the target of good-natured jibes at her "Mo'ral."

Although she claimed to be at a disadvantage in any discussion in English, Yvette more than held her own. Groping occasionally for the right word, and using her hands expressively, Mrs. Leger made up in vivaciousness and tenacity anything she lacked in rhetoric.

She was amazed at the jubilation over Cougars victory Saturday against Tacoma. "For goodness sake," she said, "what did you expect?" (When it comes to boosting for the Cougars, Yvette yields first place to none.)

Montreal is in somewhat the same category as the Cougars. "When you've been born in a place . . . well," and a shrug of the shoulders leaves you to imagine the rest.

"Oh, I like Victoria, the people, the scenery, everything except the rain, rain, all the time, rain."

"Since I have been 'ere, it 'as not stop raining yet."

In Montreal, it seems, rain is something strange. When reference was made to the cold winters of Quebec she indignantly denied the calumny.

If Victoria doesn't get as much ice it is only because the water is salt.

This first road trip of the Cougar Boosters was like that. Outward bound, the gang got acquainted, bought their buttons and miniature hockey sticks and discussed the Korean situation with Federal Old-Line hoopers who were returning home after their game with Individuals.

During the pregame four-hour wait in Seattle, they did the town.

Massed in a high section of the Seattle Arena, Victoria was heard from at the first face-off, and the gang never stopped cheering.

As they assembled on the deck of the Chinook this morning they watched dawn come up over Mount Baker and agreed that the trip had been swell, super, or just plain colossal. Many were already making plans to meet again for the New Westminster jaunt next Saturday.

The Boosters—in name and spirit—are here to stay.

Unbeaten Cadets In Stiff Battle

Royal Roads gridders climaxed an unbeaten season Saturday by beating the rugged Oak Bay Goblins 18 to 6 to win the Douglas Trophy, symbolic of the city championship.

In running up an impressive seasons record of eight wins against no losses, the Cadets were never harder pressed for victory than on Saturday.

The undermanned Goblins played the game with only four substitutes; fought like demons for every inch of territory, and the six points they scored equalled the previous number of points scored against the Cadets for the entire season.

Cadets drew first blood as Elmer Martin plunged two yards for the initial major, after the Goblins had withstood several assaults. McKenzie split the posts with his convert.

Midway through the second quarter Goblins caught fire and with Ken Higgs and Jack Utting carving long gains they worked the ball down to the Roads' five-yard line.

Cadets held on downs but received two penalties which allowed Goblins to retain possession of the ball and Jim Oliver plunged off-tackle for the touchdown. The conversion attempt

WEAK DEFENCE HURTS TIDE IN CUP DEFEAT

Locals Appear Nervous As Lions Capitalize On Scoring Chances

One down—but five to go.

That was the reaction of the Crimson Tide to their 16-to-11 defeat at the hands of Vancouver Lions Saturday afternoon.

They had no reason to be ashamed of their performance in the first McKechnie Cup game, and when one or two obvious weaknesses are overcome, Victoria's rep team will be ready to reverse things on Vancouver ground.

Ineptitude and poor clearing in the backfield were responsible for the loss. The Lions could claim only two of their four tries as earned.

The mainland club made their weight felt in the scrum and thrilled the fans time and time again with clever ball handling by their fast-breaking three-quarter line.

Victoria shone chiefly in the tackling, with Wally Malcolm as one of the stars. The light left-wing man halted the Vancouver advance time and again with a jarring ferocity that left several of the opposition flattened and winded.

For the Lions, the kicking of Harry Winter was a highlight. Winter gained much ground for his team with his clever boot work.

FIRST TRY TO TIDE

The first scoring play was started by Tide when captain Derek Hyde-Lay kicked from a Vancouver offside. Speedy Ray Mitchell dribbled his way through massed opposition near the 15-yard line and went over for the first try of the game. A beautiful kick by John Shipley made the score 5 to 0 for Victoria.

First Vancouver score came on a surprise play by Marshall Smith after fullback Herb Alexander's kick had been blocked. Harry Winter converted to tie the game.

The Victoria reps went ahead again when the three-quarter line carried the ball over the line but dropped it on the scoring play. With the fans howling for a recovery, Tide repeated the play in almost identical fashion, with Jim Mill making no mistake on the try. Shipley missed the conversion from a difficult angle, and the fans roared with the score 8 to 5 for Tide.

LIONS COME BACK

Mainland reps missed an opportunity to move within a point of Victoria when Harry Winter missed a penalty kick on the Victoria 20-yard line, but a fumble by Lorne Prevost gave Dave Storey the break that was needed and the Lion forward flashed across the line for the fourth try of the game, at the 20-minute mark of the first half. Storey had cut between the posts on making his run, and Winter redeemed his earlier kick on the conversion.

With the Crimson Tide now on

England Holds Chance In Test Match

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuter)—After a battle of tactics in a day of extraordinary cricket on a treacherous wicket, England finished up today needing 163 runs, with four wickets in hand to beat Australia in the first test.

Caught on a sticky wicket, England lost seven wickets for 68 runs before declaring 160 behind Australia's first-innings total of 228.

Australia floundered even worse and, after losing the first three wickets before a run was scored, declared at 32 for seven. Left needing 193 runs to win, England, batting for the last 70 minutes in indifferent light, scored 30 for six before bad light stopped play a few minutes early.

Twenty wickets, including those of some of the finest batsmen in the world, fell for 130 runs in four hours, and a game scheduled for six days was almost over in two days' actual play.

Optimists feel that England still holds an outside chance of success if the wicket becomes easier by tomorrow.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Kevin (Crusher) Conway, 20-year-old defenceman on Charlottetown Islanders in the Maritime Senior Hockey League, has been asked by Murph Chamberlain to join Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

United's Playoff Chances Hinge On Meeting With Royals Saturday

Though beaten 3 to 1 by Vancouver City on the mainland Saturday, Victoria United still retains a playoff hope in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

This state of affairs exists mainly because New Westminster Royals were also defeated—losing to St. Andrews, 2 to 0—and United is scheduled to meet Royals here this Saturday.

The league standings at the present time, with United having three games to play, finds United in the cellar two points behind the Royals, who now have lost five straight. It follows that if United can get by New Westminster here they will be in a tie for the last playoff position and the final two games, of the schedule will decide the important fourth-place slot. Also on the credit side of the ledger is the fact that United have a game in hand over the Royals.

City on Saturday were at their best as they pulled away from a 1 to 1 stalemate at the half to score two unanswered markers in the final 45 minutes.

Bob Lewis gave the Dominion champions the lead after 25 minutes of play scoring from a scramble in front of the goal. Jack Robbins, the penalty kicker de luxe, put United on even terms after Jack Spry had been hauled down by Pat Philley in the defending zone.

Only some sensational net-minding by Joe Travis in the second half kept the score within reason as Ivan Carr and Brian Philley counted for City.

SAILORS BUSY SHOPPING

Gay Christmas Gifts Come From Hongkong

Buying Christmas presents for someone you have never seen is a problem, especially when you are thousands of miles from home.

But that is what faced a number of Canadian sailors aboard the three destroyers now in the Korean war zone.

The presents were for off-springs born after the ships left Esquimalt for the Far East.

Since deadline for mailing gifts and cards in time for Christmas delivery here is Friday, the tars have completed their shopping just when most folks at home are starting.

Up-to-date figures are not available, but there are quite a few proud fathers on the ships who have yet to see their children. H.M.C.S. Sioux leads the way, with no less than 11, at the last count.

Norway's Telephone Rules Simplified

OSLO (Reuter) — Norway's telephone operators have won a major victory for language reform. Mainly at their instigation—and for their benefit—the method of saying numbers over 20 will be reversed, by law, so that from now on 25 will be "twenty-five" instead of the present "five - and - twenty." The method is to be adopted in all government departments, schools and radio services.

Gifts, wrapped in Japanese paper with gaily-colored symbols, are being bought with an eye to customs regulations displayed on ships' notice boards.

The sailors got their Christmas gifts wrapped and in the mail before they sailed from a Japanese naval base last week on their latest assignment.

Some of the presents were purchased during the ships' recent trip to Hongkong. They include silken goods, curios and hand-carved chests.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Climate Change May Help Sinus Sufferer

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

An anxious young woman living in the northeastern part of the United States recently wrote: "For the last five years I have had sinus trouble every winter. My head aches, my nose runs, and I feel terribly. I have taken sulfa, penicillin, sinus washings with all kinds of solutions and nothing seems to help. I have a good job, and all my relatives and friends live nearby. What can I possibly do?"

Thousands of other people who suffer from sinusitis could tell much the same story. This miserable affliction is all too common, especially in the north temperate climates. But just what brings it on and what to do for it are questions which have not yet been completely answered.

We know where the trouble lies. It is one or more pockets lying near the nose which normally are filled with air, lined with a delicate mucous membrane and which help to give the voice resonance.

IS A MYSTERY

We know, too, that germs get into the sinuses and if they find conditions favorable they will multiply and cause inflammation there. But why they do this in some people and not in others is a mystery.

What can be done for a person like the young woman whose letter is quoted? She has already taken the first steps. Some sinuses are cleared up by the drugs mentioned or by washings. Sometimes the openings from the sinuses into the nose clog up and these can be opened, thus allowing the pus and germs to escape.

If these measures fail, as they do all too often, we are up against it. Surgery offers help to some. Usually this consists in an operation to widen the opening into the sinus permanently. But even this does not always work.

Then there is another difficult decision. Should one move to another climate? Take the young lady who wrote so feelingly of her troubles. If she decided to move she would have to give up her job and leave her family and friends.

She may be miserable enough to do this but she must still decide where to go. The sad thing is that no one can tell her ahead of time that she is absolutely sure to get relief on place or another.

Change of climate does help a lot of sinus sufferers nevertheless. A climate without extremes of temperature change between winter and summer and between night and day usually works out best. Also a reasonable amount of moisture in the atmosphere is desirable.

Certain parts of Florida and Southern California fit these needs pretty well, but some sinus victims do well in Arizona and similar drier climates. There is no one climate which does the trick for all and it is therefore wise to take a long vacation in the place selected and watch the results before making it a permanent residence.

Bear Drinks Milk

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—Customers in a lunchroom here were astounded to see a big bear drinking milk. Then the bear got up and walked away with his two human companions. They were from a nearby circus.

VERMONT LISTS FOUR MISSING IN FIVE YEARS

BENNINGTON, Vt. (BUP)—Four years ago today 18-year-old Jean Welden—a student at Bennington College—walked into the woods of southern Vermont . . . and disappeared. Nothing has been heard from the girl.

The mystery was deepened with the passing of time. Moreover, since that fateful day four years ago, an eight-year-old boy and a housewife have disappeared without a trace in the same area.

In 1945, a hunter had also vanished.

Four persons missing in five years . . . a deepening mystery of the Green Mountains of southern Vermont.

ANCIENT 'FLYING DISC' FOUND IN CYPRUS ISLAND TEMPLE

LONDON (Reuter)—Maybe we moderns aren't the only ones plagued by flying saucers. It seems the ancients saw them, too. British archaeologists on the Isle of Cyprus have reported to London that they had unearthed a ruined temple. In the temple they found a small stone seal. Expedition leader Joan du Platt said one seal bore the replica of what was definitely a winged disk. Age of this antique flying saucer? About 3,000 years.

10% Of Province Mapped In Detail

Almost all of British Columbia has been photographed by air, but only 10 per cent of the province has been mapped in detail from the photos. Capt. W. Hall of B.C. Aerial Survey Division, said at a Lions Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel.

The maps, on a scale of one inch to the mile, cost $6 per square mile, and will not be completed for 60 years, he said. Only areas not photographed are the Queen Charlotte Islands and Knight Inlet district.

Interim maps are being prepared for the B.C. Forest Service toward compiling an inventory of forest resources, Capt. Hall said.

Ocean Falls Is Jarred By Big Heater Blast

OCEAN FALLS (CP)—A 1,000-pound heater exploded today in the huge Pacific Mills Ltd. paper plant, crumbling part of a wall, smashing windows and embedding itself in solid concrete. There were no injuries.

Residents thought an earthquake had struck this coastal paper town, 300 miles north of Vancouver. The entire town felt the blast.

Company officials said the apparatus is for heating water before it goes into the plant's boilers.

"Pacific Mills have enormous boilers and if one had blown it would have been terrible—half the town would have been blasted," said Donald Denham, provincial government boiler inspector.

Ice Piles Litter Streets Of Calgary Flood Area

Scenes Of Desolation Mark District Where Many Low-Wage People Suffered

By GRAHAM TROTTER

CALGARY (CP)—The Bow River flood has left block after block of cold, miserable desolation and heartbreak in its icy wake in east-central Calgary.

The heartbreak is heaped almost entirely on those least able to bear the burden—families in low-wage brackets and small business proprietors struggling to make a living.

At least 3,000 of them—mothers and babies, laborers and shopkeepers, aged and crippled—fled their homes in a 23-block residential district when the Bow flooded Friday night during sub-zero weather.

A tour of the area—aboard a patrolling army Bren gun carrier after darkness when further flooding threatens and on foot in daylight when the water has receded—gives a graphic picture of the flood's aftermath.

Everywhere you look there is ice. Water seeps and builds up underneath the cakes. Ridges of ice on buildings show where basements and ground floors were inundated by freezing water which warped floors, ruined furniture and cut off gas heat and hot water.

Many of the modest dwellings, most of them among Calgary's oldest, will not be suitable for reoccupancy for a lengthy period. The evacuees, staying with relatives and friends or at emergency shelters, pray for a prolonged warm spell so they can return and set their houses in order.

Every curb is lined by giant piles of ice blocks, shoved there by bulldozers. Road blocks and lanterns stand at intersections. Stranded ice-caked motor vehicles dot the streets, some of them in the middle of roads where their drivers were caught by the flood's sudden onrush.

WEAR WADERS

Every policeman you meet is wearing hip waders. Rescue boats repose at strategic places. The Cecil Hotel, boxed in by ice and its basement flooded to the rafters, is vacant. One hundred guests left Saturday night after the freezing water had snapped basement pipes, cutting off steam heat to the rooms.

A short distance away a once-noisy foundry is silent. It was there that 24-year-old Art Michaluk escaped drowning while rescuing 11 dogs from an adjacent kennel.

The young Calgary plumber, with two dogs tucked under his arms, fell into a water-filled pit up to his armpits. Although his clothes were frozen so he could hardly move, Michaluk made six more trips through the water from the kennel to the foundry's top floor, where he left the dogs.

WOMAN CRAWLS FOR AID

2 Die, 2 Survive Parking Of Auto In Alberta Snow

CALGARY (CP)—A badly frozen young woman crawled more than 200 yards through deep snow to the Calgary-Banff highway Saturday, flagged down a passing motorist and took him to a parked automobile, where two persons were found dead and one unconscious.

The woman, 21-year-old Eileen Dodds of Olds, Alta., and Fred Kostanek, about 21, of Calgary, both are in serious condition in hospital here.

Dead are Mildred Janet Anderson, 21, and Allan Edwin Butler, 22, both of Calgary. It was not known whether they were overcome by carbon monoxide in the parked car or were frozen to death.

Miss Dodds came to and left the car for aid. It is believed the foursome parked the car off the highway, 18 miles west of Calgary, Friday night and left the motor running.

There's a World of Difference Between A Change and An Improvement

Since the inception of motoring Austin have been responsible for many genuine improvements which today are commonplace in the motoring world. When these improvements had been tried and tested they were incorporated into Austin products, but it has never been the policy to make changes in styles merely for the sake of a change. Since the first A40 was produced in October, '47, over a quarter of a million have been sold. In the light of experience improvements have been made in many small details, but basically the A40 Sedan has remained the same model and will do so for the coming season. A new A40 Sports Sedan Convertible will be on the showroom floor early in the new year, but this is a model quite apart and catering to a different mode of motoring than the A40 Sedan. Such changes to cars as "new-different" radiator motifs serve only to date and depreciate former models, and cannot be truly called improvements.

Well over 50,000 Canadian motorists are enjoying the all-round economy and reliability that an Austin A40 gives... why not investigate for yourself the reasons why this car is a world-record beater.

A Worm's-Eye View

Currently on show in our showrooms is an A40 with the underside on view. See this, note the solid construction of all the parts not usually on view to new car buyers.

Sharp Increase Noted In World Drug Addicts

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States, Canada and Britain Saturday reported a sharp increase in dope addicts—victims who have "graduated" from marihuana to heroin.

Postwar prosperity, a desire for "kicks," international tension and a greater availability of heroin because of increased smuggling from Italy and Turkey were responsible, the U.N. commission on narcotics was told.

In the U.S., one in every 3,000 of the general population—or an estimated total of 53,000 persons—is a heroin addict, Harry J. Anslinger, federal narcotics commissioner, reported.

Col. C. H. L. Sherman of Canada told the commission that never before has the heroin traffic been so prevalent.

U.S. Army Pilot Dies Trying To Avert Crash

DALLAS, Tex. (CP)—Lieut. James Bradley's F184 caught fire Sunday on takeoff from nearby Hensley air force base. Officers said the National Guard pilot could have stopped the aircraft and escaped. Instead, he lifted it over 100 automobiles at the airport's edge, filled with spectators, and crash-landed beyond. The plane by then was engulfed in flames and Bradley was killed.

Lumber shipments are keeping Victoria's deepsea docks at Ogden Point busy these days. Different view on the increased activity is given in this aerial picture by

U.S. Controls Shipments To Russia, Border Lands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States started today to enforce strict controls on shipments of all goods destined for Communist China, Hongkong and Macao.

Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer also announced the same controls applied to all shipments of strategic commodities from foreign countries passing through American ports en route to Russia and her satellite countries; China, Hongkong and Macao.

Sawyer explained that shipments to Hongkong, a British crown colony, and Macao, a Portuguese possession, are affected because two places are important transshipment points.

The aim is to cut sharply shipments of strategic goods that might reach Communist or Communist-dominated countries.

The new step means export licenses now must be obtained on all goods—even for such things as powder puffs and toothbrushes, for example—being shipped from the U.S. to Red China and Hongkong and Macao.

The restriction means, a representative of the Office of International Trade explained, that foreign ships bringing foreign goods into U.S. ports must have their cargo shipments cleared through American officials. By American ports, he said, is meant any ports under U.S. jurisdiction, along with the Panama Canal. Heretofore, strategic materials made in the U.S. and being shipped abroad have been under strict export controls regarding shipment to Communist-controlled areas.

Canada has had strict export controls for some time on strategic materials to be shipped to Communist countries or countries lying near Communist countries which could handle transshipment of such goods. Export permits are required for all such shipments, and recent indications are that the control of such shipments is tightening.

However, these restrictions apply only to strategic goods such as metals and ammunition.

New Mechanical Heart Ready For Trials May Even Bring Humans Back From Dead

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—A new mechanical heart is ready for trial on human beings, a surgeon announced today.

If it works it will open a new era in chest and lung surgery and may even bring humans back from the dead.

It is kept in an operating room at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia, waiting for the first need of it, said Dr. Charles B. Bailey, renowned heart surgeon. Its first use probably will be to try to revive a person whose heart has stopped beating, one who is clinically dead.

Amazingly compact, only the size of a small console radio, the glass-encased machine substitutes for both the heart and the lungs.

Through plastic tubes, it draws dark red, waste-laden blood from the veins. A steel lung gives the blood oxygen. A special pump, no bigger than the human heart, pulses refreshed, bright red blood back into an artery.

The machine can completely detour all the blood around the body's own heart and lungs. This means surgeons could open a bloodless living heart, and have time and vision for new and better kinds of heart operations.

It has worked successfully on dogs, keeping one dog alive for 71 minutes while the spare heart circulated its blood. Dr. Bailey told the Ohio chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians.

The dog's own heart took over its usual job again when the machine was disconnected. The dog recovered, he said.

What's Your Opinion?

By IRVING STRICKLAND AND DAVE STOCK

Would you be in favor of the provincial government providing doctor's care and other medical services to supplement hospital insurance benefits, even though this would mean higher premiums?

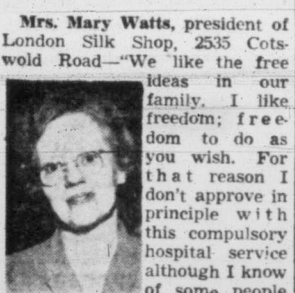

Miss Louisa Frith, milliner, 1002 Cook Street—"My opinion is very definite on that. I prefer to pay my doctor and I would prefer to pay the hospital. I much prefer to pay my expenses as I incur them. Being told we must all pay hospital insurance is a form of regimentation. Soon we will be told we must all buy milk from the same dairy. Some people would say my opinion belongs to the horse and buggy days."

Lloyd G. McKenzie, lawyer, 3434 Bonair Place—"I wouldn't advise that be done until the people responsible have had a chance to iron out the kinks in the hospitalization scheme as it is now. Also, I would wait until we have a better opportunity of seeing the results of the British plan. I think also the doctors should be fully considered on this. As an ultimate result, however, I think it is desirable."

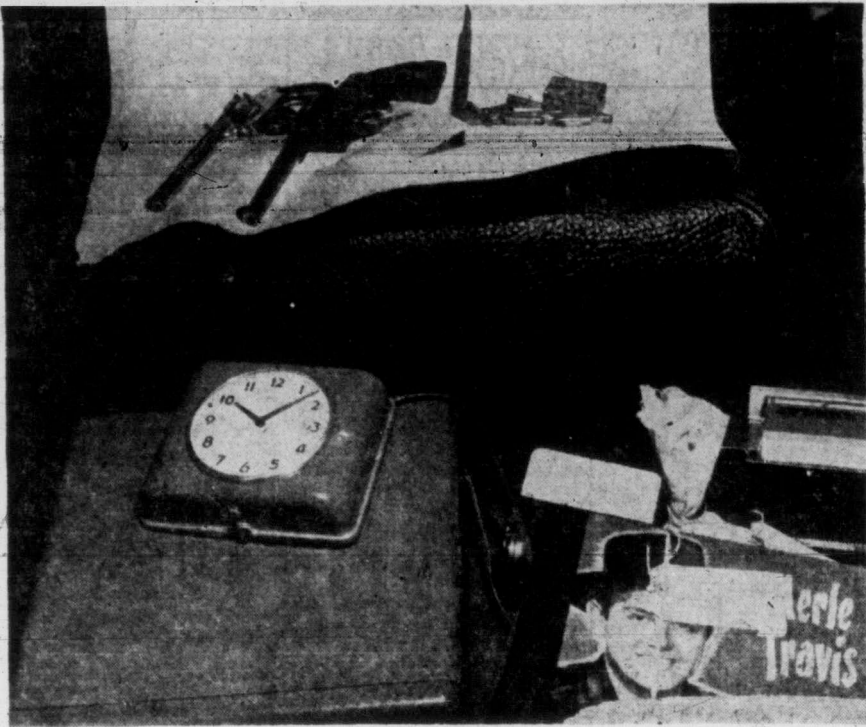

Mrs. Frances Entwistle, proprietress of Carol Ann China Shop, 237 Wilwood Avenue—"I think it would be a very good idea. Doctors' bills are often a lot higher than hospital bills. I'd like first, though, to see them do something about this business of not allowing outpatients to use hospital facilities. It doesn't seem reasonable that when you fracture your arm and don't have to go into hospital you have to pay for X-rays. Yet, if you go into hospital, you can have all the X-rays without charge. That doesn't seem fair."

Eric Mathison, proprietor of Mathfair Bakery, 2033 Queenswood Drive—"I think it would be a very equitable arrangement. Poor people often can't afford to pay their doctors' bills. This would be a plan where everyone would have to contribute on an equal basis and everyone would benefit. If it's a thing just getting its grass roots, it's just as well it comes under provincial administration."

Mrs. Mary Watts, president of London Silk Shop, 2535 Cotswold Road—"We like the free ideas in our family. I like freedom; freedom to do as you wish. For that reason I don't approve in principle with this compulsory hospital service although I know of some people who really have benefited by it. It has been argued government medical care is the first step toward Communism. Another thing, any service the government provides is not free. Because it seems free, it is often abused."

Norman Tanner, salesman, London Life Insurance, 1079 Deal Street—"I think that would be taking things too far away from private enterprise. There are plans offered now by private companies which provide for medical services. It seems to me much too much is coming under the control of government. I don't think it's a good thing. You take out the profit incentive in any business and inefficiency is more likely to creep in."

Some of loot recovered from shopbreaking forays of two juveniles.

Warning Shots Halt Two Youths Found To Be Armed With Pistols

Stopped by warning shots fired by policemen, two 15-year-old boys, armed with pistols, arrested Sunday night, are believed to be responsible for at least a half-dozen robberies in Victoria and Saanich during the last few weeks.

Their capture, made possible through the alertness of a city storekeeper, is considered by police to be further proof that juveniles and 'teen-agers have been responsible for the biggest percentage of shopbreaking in this area this year.

Ralph Creed, proprietor of the OK Food and Meat Market, 941-43 Kings Road, living over his store, heard his premises being broken into and called police at 8:55.

Constables Deans Blackstock, Albert Wilson, Jack Perry, W. W. Calwell and Albert Harwood saw two boys who started to run away from the rear of the store. Two shots fired into the ground brought them to a stop.

GUNS WERE LOADED
While running, a revolver fell out of a pocket of one of the boys. The other threw his away. Police recovered both weapons. They were loaded.

Detectives said they were guns stolen in the recent break-in of Fred Behnson's gunsmith shop on Pandora Avenue. One is the property of Saanich police.

Police found additional ammunition, files, glass-cutters and a pen flashlight on the boys.

The youths were taken to the detention home. They appeared in juvenile court today. Police said a window in the rear of Creed's store had been broken above the catch.

A considerable amount of loot, including a radio, clocks, a gramophone, albums of records and other articles, have been recovered by police as a result of the arrests.

The boys are believed to have been responsible for at least two shop-robberies at the Gorge recently and several in the city as well as attempted entries. Glass-cutters had been used in some cases.

R. W. Jones, 3278 Alder Street, reported to police that his service station, the Lone Star, 2121 Douglas Street, was entered between 1 and 2 Sunday morning and a .38-calibre pistol stolen.

Britons Eat Dog Fish And Like It
If Victoria housewives take a tip from a Cornish couple they may be able to make a lowly fish do as a substitute for salmon in these days of high living costs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sampson, who are visiting Victoria, report that the dog fish which is thrown overboard by British Columbia fishermen is advertised in England as rock salmon and sold in the fish-and-chips shops.

"They are the cheapest fish we sell, but they taste all right," said Mr. Sampson, who is a fisherman.

Would Up Payroll Of City $250,000

Negotiations Open This Week For 700 Civic Employees

Wage demands, if met in full, will cost Victoria approximately a quarter of a million dollars. Negotiations for agreements for 700 civic employees will open this week.

Average increases sought amount to about $30 a month per employee, which, multiplied by 700, would be in the neighborhood of $252,000 a year, according to one city official.

With this year's value of a mill placed at $43,000 the increase would be over five mills on the city's tax rate.

International Association of Fire Fighters, Local No. 730, which bargains for approximately 97 men, asks wage increases ranging from $41.83 a month to $66.72.

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local Union No. 230, which bargains for 15 seeks increases ranging from $17.30 a month to $37.10.

City Hall Employees' Association, Local No. 4, which comprises 187 employees have already indicated they would seek a $30 a month raise.

TO VANCOUVER LEVEL

Civic Employees' Protective Association Union No. 50 which comprises the city's outside staff of 300 asked to have an adjustment of wages to the Vancouver level, in addition to the rise in the cost of living from Jan. 1, 1950. It is believed this will approximate $30 a month.

Victoria Police Federal Union, which bargains for about 85 which asked for $30 increase originally are now in the process of negotiations with the Police Commission.

Cecil C. Wyatt, city manager, will be the city's bargaining agent at the agreement negotiations which will be open to the press.

The city will meet the inside

THOUSAND SALMON IN RUN NOW ON AT GOLDSTREAM

Annual salmon run now on at Goldstream drew a large crowd Sunday.

Chum salmon, latest of the many varieties to spawn, are the only ones in the stream at this time of year. The others have completed their life cycles, and even among the chums it is only the stragglers which are now reaching the spawning grounds. Height of the season is mid-November.

The fish spawn mainly in the riffles through the park, and rarely go past the highway bridge. The run this year was estimated at somewhat less than 1,000 fish.

Jury Suggests Lights To Avert Wharf Tragedies

A coroner's jury today recommended that lights be placed on the V.M.D. wharf where Reginald Howard Sims, C.N.R. barge skipper, from New Westminster, fell early Friday morning and drowned.

The jury, with Reginald Edwards as foreman, took only two minutes to bring in a verdict of accidental death in the case. The panel felt, however, that had there been some illumination in the vicinity, Sims would have had a chance to save himself.

Evidence was that Sims lost his balance while attempting to cross from a C.N.R. barge to the wharf on a teetering gangway. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gold, who witnessed the mishap, explained Sims was showing them ashore after they had spent the evening with him.

Because of an extreme low tide, Mr. Gold recalled, the gangway stuck out from the wharf, and did not touch the deck of the barge. Sims jumped on the overhanging end to bring it down.

"I asked him if he was all right and said to be careful. He said he was all right and jumped back on to the gangplank. He fell back and went over the side."

Mrs. Gold recalled there were no lights to illuminate the gangplank and the night was particularly dark. She said Sims carried a flashlight to show the way. The flashlight fell into the water when Sims slipped.

DRIVERS RACE POLICE

Two Draw Fines For Dangerous Driving

"I had one chance in a hundred to get away and I took it," "hot-rod" driver William Hughes, 341 Richmond Road, told Saanich policemen after they had caught him following a hit-and-run collision early Sunday morning on Douglas Street.

Hughes appeared in Saanich Court before Magistrate H. C. Hall on two charges.

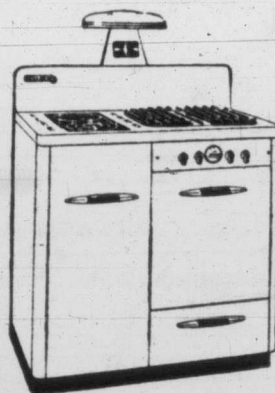

He pleaded guilty to dangerous driving and was fined $50. He also pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident, render assistance, and was fined $35. His license was suspended for three months.

Evidence was that Hughes was racing his "hot rod" down Douglas Street when there were pedestrians about and cars parked on both sides of the street. Finally Hughes collided with a parked car, causing about $400 damage, and kept on going. Police tracked him down.

Joseph Fagan, 684 Pine Street, drew a fine of $50 and a two-month license suspension on a charge of dangerous driving. He pleaded guilty.

Police said he was chasing another car along Douglas Street around 1:30 Sunday morning. When a policeman signalled him to stop he kept going.

INDIANS LIST DEMANDS

Equality Feature Of Brief To Government

Protection from "white man's business card tricks" to obtain land and property belonging to Indians is requested in a brief sent today to the federal government by southern Vancouver Island Indians.

The brief, recommending amendments to the Indian Act at the forthcoming parliamentary session, was endorsed by chiefs and councillors of six Indian tribes at a meeting held on the Songhees Reservation Sunday.

Chief Percy Ross presided. Representatives were from the Songhees and Esquimalt Reservations, Beecher Bay, Sooke, Malahat and Cowichan.

The brief asked that the education of Indian children be carried out on a non-sectarian basis and that the word "religious" mentioned in the act be struck out.

"In making this request, we wish it understood that we, the Indians, are fully conscious of the great moral value which the teaching of the religious bodies of the new civilization have extended to us and to our children," Chief Percy Ross said.

"But we do insist on religious freedom."

The Indians felt that no person should be forced to vary the education of his child because of his adherence to a particular religious faith. Under the present act, the Indian department can stop an Indian mother from sending her child to a school which is not operated by her religious sect.

The brief also asked that the laws governing the Indians' use of liquor be made equal in every respect to those controlling the white people.

"The Indian Act as it now stands does not sufficiently recognize the fact that we Indians were the first possessors of the domain now known as Canada," said the brief. "Except in a few instances where advantages have been taken of the ignorance of our forefathers in the 'white man's ways of business, we the Indians have not surrendered any rights, titles or interests in the same heritage."

It points out that in the past certain chiefs have been induced, by fear or favor, to undersell their people by taking monies or articles of value for their personal use in exchange for lands for which they had only limited right.

The brief asked that Indians be protected from this type of business. It points out that chiefs only hold the lands in trust for their people and have no right to sell them.

A request to vote in all matters in which the welfare of Canada is at stake, is also requested.

"But we must not be asked to pay a price for the vote by surrendering any of our rights which entitle us to live our lives as an independent people."

The Indians also claimed that they were entitled to all educational facilities enjoyed by the white people.

NO ENTRY MADE
A skylight was broken in the office of Luney Bros. and Hamilton Ltd., 825 Bay Street, during the weekend, but no entry was made, police said.

An exhaust reflector was stolen off the car owned by Tom Reid, 2150 Windsor Road, during the weekend, police said.

A. E. Price, 1050 Pandora Avenue, reported to city police that a small camera was stolen from his store on Saturday.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Asks How To Help Sister Overcome
Frustrated Attachment To Bachelor
Involved With Aging Divorcee

Dear Mary Haworth: A problem in my sister's life has been a constant worry to me this past year, but she confides in me so little that I am afraid to broach the subject to her. As our parents are dead I feel a special responsibility to help her if I can, and I am hoping you can guide me. I married early and never had such a problem myself.

My sister, now 35, is a lovely person — attractive, chic, cultured, a college graduate with an excellent teaching job. She was always popular and seemingly well adjusted, in the sense that she had many beaux without being aggressive for dates. She seems to fit in anywhere and can Mary Haworth draw away from vulgarity without being a prude. She wants marriage and I think has tried to acquire the assets a man expects in a wife. She has passed up many men in the big money, Ivy League class, and for some reason I can't fathom has gotten dependent on Tom, a bachelor, 35, who has been calling her off and on for six years.

Tom seems a nice chap, with the same qualifications, except for less money, that her other admirers had; but there is another woman in his life, a divorcee 10 or more years his senior. I am told he had an affair with this Mrs. X in another town before he knew my sister Eve. Mrs. X followed him to this locality, makes it her business to be near him, even to the extent of getting a job in his club, and calls him several times daily. She seems very predatory in a Gay Nineties sort of way; and is probably 50, trying to look 35. As Tom looks younger than his years, they are a queer looking pair.

IS MAN ENTICED AGAINST HIS WILL? Eve still dates other men, but is losing ground with them as the years pile up, though she doesn't see that. She and Tom seem so "right" together, and he is so attentive, almost grateful, in her company — that friends can't understand why he would even be seen with the hard-boiled Mrs. X. Can a man be so enticed, against his will, that he can't break away? What chance has a normally reared girl in this set-up? I feel I must get Eve out of it, but how? Tom is an orphan, by the way, reared by a wealthy domineering aunt; and could this explain Mrs. X's hold on him? Please advise. Z. S.

THIS IS BACHELOR'S SECURITY OPERATION

Dear Z. S.: As I see the over-all picture, Tom is the ace manipulator of female frustration here; not that he is willfully intent on thwarting the ladies, but because his overweening unconscious dynamic is "Save me first!" He has a chronic problem of excessive emotional dependency; or call it psychological infantilism; and he is trying to assuage the almost intolerable anxieties that issue therefrom.

Your references to Tom's background, to his being an orphan reared by a wealthy domineering aunt, suggest the "neurotic" factors that probably instigate his ambivalent neurotic romancing. From the hour of birth he instinctively developed total dependency upon his mother's person and interest for succor. But she disappeared from his life very early — inexcusable Shock No. 1 to his emotional constitution. This was followed by the uneasy experience of long-term dependency upon a tyrant aunt who doubtless played upon his "insecurity" bias to compel obedience to her self-aggrandizing rule — if we may judge by the damage done his character.

SISTER'S EVADING FIRST-CLASS MALES

In brief, Tom's emotional buffering, both literal and subjective, has blocked his growth. He is inordinately afraid of the normal risks of hurt that are implicit in an adult man-woman love relationship. And it appears that Eve and Mrs. X are neurotically conditioned to feel an affinity for his infantilism. Perhaps each woman feels, unconsciously, that she couldn't live up to a real man's expectations of a mate; or perhaps each is afraid of "sex" as such, and seeks to get around the inhibition by having a mother-son type of "love" with a magnetic clinging-vine male.

In any case, Eve's problem is herself, not Tom. Her ingenuitous attachment to him is simply an evasion of better men. If and when she glimpses that truth, she may, with psychiatric help, begin to outgrow him.

M. H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Times.

Entertainment during the supper hour was given by Miss Marion McAuley in an exhibition of Highland dancing.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

If there is one thing which distresses a columnist it is to say something over and over again and find that it has fallen on hard ground and never been absorbed.

Recently I heard a speaker assert, "You know how mothers are: they can hear their baby cry until he is black in the face and they won't feed him until the clock says it is time."

I wanted to rise and protest. "Mothers are not that way any more. They know better. They feed the baby when he is hungry, regardless of the clock. They don't let him cry, because they have been told often enough that a baby's first association is with the mother and if she ignores his cries and leaves him alone in his particular misery, he acquires a psychic scar which is supposedly life-long. He feels that the world repudiates him because his mother did." If mothers do not know this it is certainly not for lack of repetition!

Now, here is another subject which has been written about frequently and it pleased me that this letter writer said, "Your column is the first thing I turn to in the paper and what interests me greatly is the wonderful way you are getting across to mothers the advantages of breast-feeding."

"I am an Australian who came to this country shortly after the war. We have two sons, three years and 18 months, and both boys have been nursed."

"Fortunately the doctor who attended me was for breast-feeding and he helped by explaining to me and my husband that I couldn't come home from the hospital with the idea of working like a beaver and then expect to pick up my baby and give him a good meal. My husband saw to it that I followed his instructions to the letter. The result was a relaxed mother and a contented baby."

"When I mention nursing to other mothers I see them turn up their noses. I have seen layettes which included bottles and nipples, showing the mothers never intended to try."

"How can mothers say, 'Nursing is so much trouble' or 'I tried for two weeks and had no milk'?"

"It took me much longer than two weeks to have a constant supply. My mother spoke words of wisdom when she said, 'Any one can give a baby a bottle; only a mother can nurse it.'"

I felt so good after reading this, hopeful of the drop of water wearing away the stone of indifference. It is to be hoped that others have noted some good results from my long-time personal campaign for breast-feeding.

Our leaflet No. 4, "The Nursing Mother," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Lace From Mother's Wedding Gown Enhances Daughter's Bridal Veil

Dainty lace appliques from her mother's wedding gown enriched the silk illusion veil worn over traditional bridal satin gown of Miss Sheila Doreen Cunningham when she repeated vows with John Lewis Rose at Fairfield United Church, Saturday evening.

The ceremony, performed in a setting of tall baskets of spiked white chrysanthemums and candelabra against a background of winter greenery, united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Cunningham, 5705 East Saanich Road, Royal Oak, and the son of Mrs. John Rose, Ochre River, Man.

A cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums intermingled with ivy, enhanced the bride's satin and lace gown fashioned with lily point sleeves, slim bodice closed from neckline to the waist with tiny satin buttons and full skirt extending into a short train. A Juliet cap of lace, trimmed with orange blossom held her veil.

Floor-length gown of American beauty velvet and white sheer over rustling taffeta, with tiny cap of matching velvet, was worn by matron of honor Mrs. Shirley Fleming, De-roche, B.C. She carried an arm bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaids Miss Joyce Astorpe, Vancouver, and Miss Eunice Stuckey chose aquamarine velvet and sheer over taffeta with matching caps and veils. Their bouquets were bronze chrysanthemums.

Petite flower girl Sharon Rose King, Ochre River Man, niece of the groom was in a dainty frock of aquamarine velvet and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Best man was Maurice Cunningham, brother of the bride, the ushers Warren Cunningham, brother of the bride, and Allan Bleathman.

Demand Noted For Skilled Men In Victoria

Vacancies for skilled men in some local trades and an outstanding demand for professional and technical men in various parts of the country was noted by C. A. Mudge, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in his weekly report.

There was a good volume of placements during the past week he said adding, however, that minor layoffs from a number of industries were sufficient to offset the gain in the number of vacancies reported over the previous week.

"The women's selection section had a very successful week with a number of excellent stenographic and office vacancies being filled," Mr. Mudge said. "Vacancies still exist for a fully-qualified tailress and a power machine operator."

Temporary jobs in sales work for the Christmas season are still few in number, he said.

"There are permanent positions available for fully-experienced ready-to-wear and drug saleswomen who have had recent experience in those lines," Mr. Mudge said.

Latest figures released by Ottawa show that on Nov. 2 there were 2,201 unemployed persons registered in Victoria. There were 1,383 men and 818 women, of which 784 men and 430 women were being paid unemployment insurance benefits.

FLIERS MEET CLIMATE EXTREMES

Airlift Members Earn Praise For Efficiency

PO. Al Marshall, of Peterborough, Ont., public relations officer for the Thunderbird Squadron, has just returned from the first Korean airlift flight via the central Pacific route.

By FO. AL MARSHALL.
McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (BUP)—Canada's airmen on the Korean airlift are basking on the sparkling white sands of sun-baked Walkiki Beach and huddling in thick, fur-line parkas in frigid Alaska.

I've just returned to McChord after flights which took me over 12,000 miles around the Pacific with the North Stars of the 42nd Thunderbird Squadron of the R.C.A.F. I came home on the first flight on the south route of the Korean airlift which goes from Japan via Iwo Jima, Wake Island, the Hawaiian Islands, San Francisco and finally McChord.

The Canadians on the airlift are winning friends and earning praise for Canada every day because of their efficient flying. The R.C.A.F. Rondel with its red maple leaf is becoming a familiar sight on many runways in remote corners of the Pacific.

Most of the air crews have now completed more than eight round-trip crossings and have almost 450 hours' flying time to their credit on the air bridge which links North America with Japan, carrying men and equipment for the Korean war.

Most of the flights which will take the southern route, will fly to Japan that way, returning via the northern route through the Aleutian Islands and Alaska.

GOOD WEATHER

Weather is generally good on the southern route and for hour after hour the big 36-ton North Stars drone on their clear blue skies above a sparkling ocean.

The southern route is a welcome change for the Canadians from the cold and uninviting North Pacific. Over the Aleutians at this time of year the worst flying weather, possible occurs.

Hawaii on the south trip is a main stop-over where crews spend most of their time soaking up sunshine and resting on the beach at Walkiki. Swimming, surfing and underwater fishing are also popular.

When they're flying back to the North American mainland the R.C.A.F. men try to remember their Hawaiian stop-over as they trudge through deep snow at the sub-zero Alaska airport at Anchorage, Alaska. The city is only 370 air miles south of the Arctic Circle.

The Iwo Jima stop is only three and a half hours out of Tokyo. It is a volcanic dot of 11 square miles in size. Six thousand American casualties were suffered in the first two days of bitter battle in World War II for this sun-baked mound of volcanic ash.

In a three-hour stop for gas and a quick meal, we were able to tour the island in a borrowed American truck. The island is criss-crossed by roads built by the Japanese. Everywhere we could see the marks of the fierce fight which took place in February and March of 1945.

Much of the debris of battle has been cleared away, but the sand still drifts across broken vehicles, guns, spent shells, gas masks, mortars and old gas drums.

Along the beaches, on all sides of the island the rusting hulls of landing craft and ships break the almost constant surf which pounds the island.

Plan Crackdown On Drinking Drivers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Chief Walter Mulligan promised today that "motorists who drink and drive are in for a surprise."

About half the weekly traffic accidents occur between Friday and Sunday and the chief has a plan to curb the toll.

"Plans are being made to change the working hours of the traffic department," he said. "We'll increase the number of men on duty at week-ends."

Drivers who mix liquor and gasoline will have their cars taken away, but the chief did not elaborate on his new plans.

COMICS OF 65 YEARS AGO

Old Copy Of London Graphic Shows Similar Features Popular In 1885

Colored comics, full-page advertisements with eye appeal, dog features, illustrations of typical family scenes and heart-warming love stories, which fill present-day periodicals, are not new to this age.

They had them in the last century.

A fine example of what went before is found in an 1885 copy of the Christmas issue of The Graphic, a London publication—price one shilling.

The journal was brought to the Times office this week by E. O. Staffeord, of Port Angeles, Wash. Mr. Staffeord found it recently in the attic of a house in Carlsberg, Washington, stored among possessions of an old lady who recently died.

Being printed on good quality paper, and having been kept from light, the copy is in excellent condition.

SIX PAGES OF THEM

The colored "comics" filled six pages of the 36-page magazine. The first was titled "The Curmudgeon's Christmas." It had to do with three Scrooge-type gentlemen who went to spend Christmas in a quiet farmhouse.

A caption explains they did so "to evade the seasonable festivities of their respective relatives."

Like the Dickens' Scrooge, they end up having a merry time and with a new outlook on life.

Another comic, which took one page, featured happenings in the day of a little girl who apparently was the Little Iodine of her day.

REAL CURE ALL

An Eno's Fruit Salt ad, depicting a gay, young thing, tripping the light fantastic with a beaming gent of middle-age and a lithe young fellow, declared: "It (Eno's) is the best preventive and cure for biliousness, sick headache, skin eruptions, impure blood, pimples on the face, giddiness, feverishness, mental depression, want of appetite, sourness of the stomach, vomiting."

Favor Sweepstakes

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Grey County Council has endorsed a resolution from Welland County Council urging the Dominion government to legalize sweepstakes for hospital purposes. The Bruce County and Owen Sound City Councils have also endorsed the proposal.

thirst and a means to remove the effects of errors of eating and drinking."

A few pages further appeared an ad for Beecham's Pills. These, the text declared: "Are admitted by thousands to be worth above a guinea a box for bilious and nervous disorders, such as wind and pains in the stomach, sick headaches, giddiness, fullness and swelling after meals, dizziness and drowsiness, cold chills, flushings of heat, loss of appetite, shortness of breath, constipation, scurvy, blotches on the skin, disturbed sleep, frightful dreams, and all nervous and trembling sensations."

The ad went on: "For ladies of all ages these pills are invaluable. No lady should be without them."

The dog feature was titled "The Adventure of Pincher" and the family scene showed five children (small family) in night attire, in "A Raid on the Dessert."

HAS HEAD LIKE COW

Hump-Backed Monster Seen On Lonely Scottish Coast

BERNERA, New Hebrides (CP)—Pop-eyed rustics on this rocky isle off the Scottish coast reported today they are troubled by a sea monster.

It is hump-backed, has a head like a cow with no horns and is 12 to 20 feet long.

Murdo MacDonald, 40-year-old lobsterman, said the beast surfaced yesterday while he was rowing his dory "in the inlet which leads from the village of Bernera to the sea.

"A horrible-looking thing it was," he told a reporter. "It snorted at me and swam by so fast the wash from it nearly swamped my boat."

MacDonald's shouts were heard by a woman of the village. She saw the creature, assumed it was a cow which had fallen into the water, and yelled for help.

Half a dozen men arrived at the shore just as the thing vanished beneath the surface.

They agreed with MacDonald that whatever it was, it wasn't a cow.

LANDLORD LOSES

Tenant Told His Right To Carry Food

LONDON (Reuter)—A London landlord accused a tenant of being undesirable because "he does his own shopping."

The landlord, Mr. Sabner, said he often met tenant J. McGurgan "carrying things in the street."

"He even carries bottles," said Sabner.

McGurgan asked his landlord to tell the tribunal what kind of bottles.

"Milk," said Sabner.

But, claimed the landlord, "it is detrimental to this class of house for people to carry shopping."

The rent tribunal didn't think so. It not only upheld McGurgan as a desirable tenant, but reduced his rent as well — by three shillings a week.

Comox Airport May Reopen As Fighter Base

COURTENAY (CP)—The $6,000,000 Comox Airport may be reopened as a base for fighter and ocean patrol squadrons.

The National Defence Department is considering Comox, Tofino and Ucluelet, J. L. Gibson, Member of Parliament for Comox-Alberni, said here today.

"But I think Comox has the inside track," he added.

The Comox Airport was built in the early 40's and served as a training base for R.C.A.F. transport aircraft during the Second World War.

Since the war it has been used mainly by commercial and private planes.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Pawnbroker Isadore Goldstein looked over the violin handed him by an anxious man, apparently down on his luck, who asked:

"How much will you give me? I gotta get to Pittsburgh."

"Ten dollars," said Goldstein. The "customer" put the violin back in the case and stalked out.

Then Goldstein learned that the customer was violinist David Rubinoff and the violin was a Stradivarius valued at $100,000.

A reporter who was on hand to see what happened explained to startled Goldstein the whole thing was a gag thought up by another newspaperman.

Russian Scientist Says Famed Tungus Meteor Probably Was Interplanetary Space Ship

MOSCOW (AP)—A Russian scientist has advanced a theory that it was an interplanetary space ship—possibly atomic powered—which crashed into Siberia in 1908, and not a meteor.

The Russian writer, S. Lyapunov, theorized in the scientific magazine "Knowledge-Power" that the famous Tungus meteorite that was reported to have exploded in the remote area 42 years ago was really a space ship from another world.

An editorial forward said the Tungus meteorite has been a mystery to scientists for years.

Strange atmospheric effects were noted throughout the world for months after its reported fall in the neighborhood of Taiga.

(Encyclopaedia Britannica says no convincing evidence has been forthcoming that a few craters near the Tunguska River in Siberia owe their origin to the enormous meteor which was widely seen June 30, 1908, and whose fall, devastating large areas of woodland in that region, was recorded by many distant barographs and seismographs. The search for the usual meteoritic material in the neighborhood has never been successful.)

The editors commented that the author's hypothesis on the nature of the Tungus meteorite was "an interesting suggestion based on facts which actually took place."

The author pictured the great space ship as being crippled by a collision with a meteor. He reasoned it tried to alight in the Mongolian Desert, but overshoot its mark by some hundreds of miles.

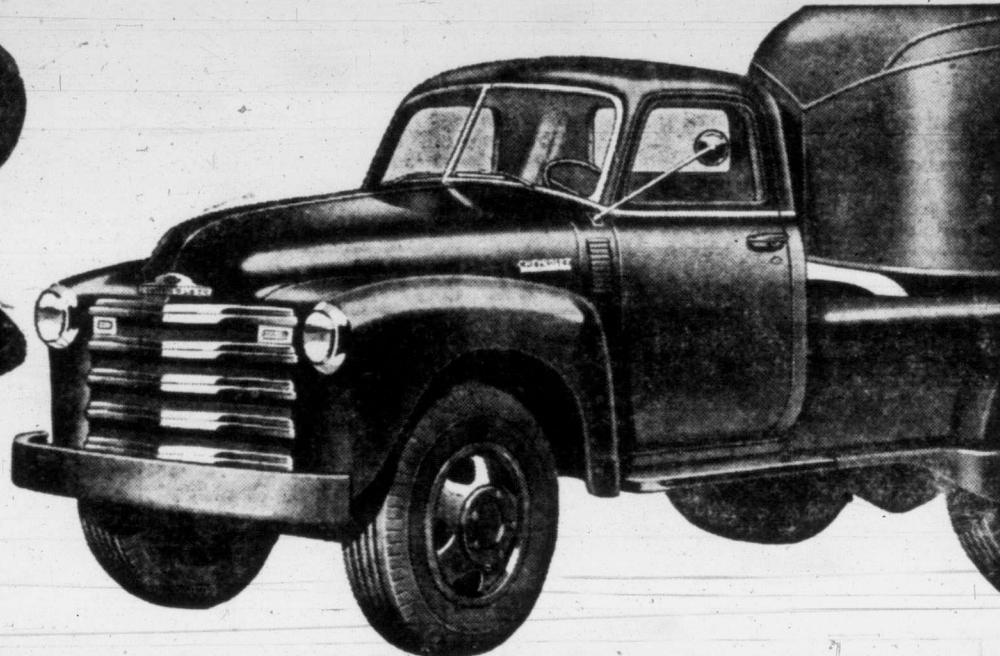

Finding itself over the rugged terrain of central Siberia, Lyapunov theorized, the ship tried to gain altitude by using its rocket motors, which were possi-

Business As Usual No Longer Possible

Neon Industry Will Suffer By Steel Ban

The neon sign industry in Victoria is likely to be the most seriously affected so far as this city is concerned, by the banning of new steel for the construction of outdoor advertising signs.

The order banning steel for this and other purposes comes into effect Jan. 1.

Mr. W. A. Bayless, president of Neon Signs said this morning, "In the last war our industry was one of the first to be frozen, so I was not surprised at the news. I am getting in touch with Vancouver to find out exactly how we are going to be affected. We have a number of big orders on hand and it does not seem that the ban will cause any difficulty there, but for new orders we shall have to look for substitutes for new steel."

Mr. Jack Taylor, island manager of Neonite, says that his firm which is putting up a new building in Vancouver, is extremely busy and has a number of big local jobs on hand.

"We do not use a great deal of steel, and no doubt we could manage to find a substitute such as angle iron or some other alloy," he said.

Neon Products Ltd., have not yet been informed as to what the position is, as their steel construction work is all done in Vancouver.

One of the largest Vancouver firms supplying steel and iron bars said today that it had no shortage of the light type of steel and iron used for neon sign construction. It will be able to supply all normal orders until the ban goes into effect Jan. 1.

Band Wagon Is Going Well But Look Out For A Spill

MONTREAL (CP)—"A definite recession within 12 months if the war situation... does not grow worse," predicted Alexander Gray, president of Gray-Bonney Tool Co. Ltd., and a director of the Canadian Exporters' Association.

"This boom is built on uncertainty, on fear of the unknown, on credit. When you read of what our government is going to do, and what the United States government is going to do, it changes from week to week, from month to month."

"When you talk to business executives they throw up their hands. Their plants are running to capacity. They have more business than they can handle, but they don't know where their steel and raw material is going to come from. They don't know what labor is going to do. They don't know what the future will bring. So just to be safe they price a little."

"It is true, business of nearly all kinds is booming, volumes are increasing, profits are generally at all-time highs, extra dividends are common, and the stock market is spectacular."

"But how much of this is hysteria? How much of it is caused by propaganda? How much of it is caused by a mass psychology of fear, greed, of feeling that we are in a new era of prosperity, that war is imminent, that inflation will come, that the glorious band wagon is going by and let's all get aboard?"

The bank chief says that national security cannot be maintained on the cheap, and the situation demanded some readjustment of living standards.

His remedy? That the government strictly adhere to a "pay-as-you-go" program; and adopt a "bold and flexible" monetary policy. The producers and consumers must avoid hoarding or panic buying, and that only a sense of social responsibility can prevent disastrous wage-price spiral.

The policy of "pay-as-you-go" is more or less the one suggested last month by Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, and the advice is not likely to be ignored in government circles.

It would seem therefore that Finance Minister Abbott next spring will be forced to bring out an unpalatable budget—one in which demands will be made on all—and that we can say goodbye or at least au revoir to the distribution of further Ottawa largesse.

Your bottle of Scotch this Christmas may have a song in its heart.

A Glasgow company has hit upon the novel idea of incorporating a musical box in the container of Scotch for the festive season.

The Scotch comes in the form of a barrel, and when the tap is turned on, the whisky begins to flow, the music begins to play.

Tunes chosen for Canada include "Bonnie Dundee," "Will ye no come back again," and the "Bluebells of Scotland."

But why not a "Wee Doch and Doris."
